

TEACHERS GET $3,000 SALARY BOOST IN TOWN

L. C. Keefauver Is Now Best Paid Of Any School Official In County.

GETS $600 OF $3,000 INCREASE

Gettysburg teachers' salaries for the present year will be exactly $3,000 more than the 1929-30 total, according to a report filed with the state department of public instruction at Harrisburg by George P. Black, secretary of the Gettysburg school district. The report is filed in connection with the annual appropriation given by the state to the Gettysburg school district.

The total spent on teachers' salaries last year was $53,920, of which $29,400 went for high school teachers and $24,520 for grade teachers. This year's salary list totals $56,920, of which $30,650 goes for high school teachers and $26,270 for grade teachers.

According to the report, every teacher in Gettysburg was given an increase for the present year, the raises ranging from $50 to $600 a year. L. C. Keefauver, the supervising principal, was given a boost of $600 a year to $3,600, his salary now exceeding that of W. Raymond Shank, Adams county superintendent of schools, who receives $3,500 annually.

The salary of G. W. Lefever, principal of the high school, was increased from $2,200 to $2,400 a year, and Eugene Martin, athletic director and teacher of health, was given a raise from $1,900 to $2,100 a year. Gettysburg is listed as having 22 elementary teachers, fourteen high school teachers, one high school principal, one supervisor of music and one supervising principal.

ARREST SUSPECT IN COUNTY THEFT

Tilman Young Held Upon Charges Of Larceny, Breaking And Entering.

Tilman Young, of near Bittinger's station, was arrested Friday afternoon by Detective Jesse Crabbs, Hanover, on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny, sworn out by Harry Chronister, Reading township, before Justice of the Peace John C. Shearer. Young was turned over to Troopers M. J. Walsh and John K. Dula, of the local state police substation, who committed him to the Adams county jail in default of $500 bail.

Young is alleged to have entered the Chronister home, Sunday, October 12, while the family was absent, and is alleged to have stolen a pair of shoes, a pair of trousers, a wrist watch, a safety razor, flashlight and $2 in money. The value of the various articles taken amounted to about $50, it was stated.

Suspicion fell upon Young, the officers said, after he had been seen around the Chronister place on the day of the robbery.

No date has been set for a hearing.

Mrs. W. R. Shank Reported Improved

Mrs. W. Raymond Shank, Buford avenue, wife of the Adams county superintendent of schools, who submitted to an operation at the Warner hospital, Friday, today was reported to be doing nicely. Mrs. Shank was admitted to the hospital on Thursday.

Michael Santinello, varsity guard on the Gettysburg college football team, who was admitted to the hospital with a healed ear on Thursday, has been discharged as a patient.

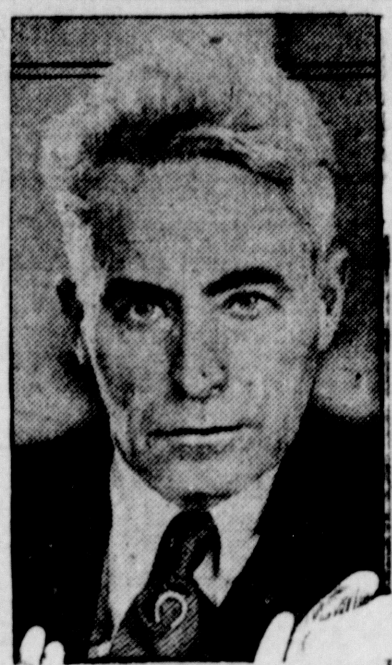

TEACHERS MEET

Teachers of Hamilton and Liberty townships held an interesting meeting at Oak Grove school, Liberty township, Friday evening. Speakers included J. J. Floyd Slaybaugh, assistant county superintendent of schools; Mrs. Gladys B. Robert, teacher of the Orttanna grammar school, and Miss Margaret Slaybaugh, teacher of the Mt. Hope school.

GOES TO PRINCETON

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP).—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, accompanied by a party of guests, left the White House this morning for Princeton to attend the Navy-Princeton football game. She traveled in a special car attached to a regular train.

Defends Station

Norman Baker, owner of station KNTT, Muscatine, Iowa, photographed at the offices of the federal radio commission in Washington, where he defended the activities of his station.

WOMAN ON TOUR SUFFERS STROKE

Dies Here After Short Illness; Body Is Sent To Her Home.

Suffering a stroke while on a tour of the Shenandoah valley with members of her family several weeks ago, Mrs. Lena A. Martin, 70, wife of H. T. Martin, Shields, Virginia, died Friday night at the Annie Warner hospital here as a result of complications from the stroke of paralysis.

She was visiting at the home of Mrs. E. J. Fitzgerald, Emmitsburg, on October 14 when she became ill and was removed to the hospital here four days later. Her condition grew steadily weaker, death occurring at 9 o'clock Friday night.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. M. A. Custer, and two sons, R. A. and W. H. Martin, both of Craddockville, Virginia. Two sisters and one brother also survive.

The body was prepared for burial and shipped to Baltimore today by H. B. Bender and Son to be taken to Shields, Virginia, for services and interment.

Hearing Monday On Pinchot G. O. P. Suit

Philadelphia, Oct. 25 (AP).—A hearing will be held Monday in the suit instituted by Gifford Pinchot, republican nominee for governor, to prevent the republican organization from receiving and disbursing party campaign funds in this city and to prevent the organization leaders from receiving republican watchers certificates in the state election November 4.

Leaders of the Vore organization are making preparation to fight the suit vigorously.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage licenses were issued at the office of W. A. Gelselman, clerk of the courts, to George E. Meckley and L. Viola Auchey, both of Berwick township, and to Mahlon William Raffensperger and Martha Elizabeth Kellner, both of McConnellsburg.

TO PREACH HERE

J. Edmund Lippy, a student at the Reformed Theological seminary, Lancaster, will deliver the sermon at the morning service at 10:45 o'clock Sunday in Trinity Reformed church.

To the Editor of The Times: Beverly Hills, Cal., Oct. 25 (AP).

Every paper every morning tells of a big gathering and prominent men who have spoken on "Better Times." If Chambers of Commerce give some worker a job instead of some speaker at a dinner, there would be no unemployment.

There has been more "optimism" talked and less practiced than at any time during our history. Every millionaire we have has offered a speech instead of keeping still and offering a job. Our optimism is all at a banquet table, where everybody there has more than they can eat.

Yours,

Will Rogers.
© 1930 McLaughlin Studio, Inc.

Lions' Club To Give Halloween Dance

The Lions' club will entertain at a Halloween masquerade dance and card party at the Hotel Gettysburg annex, Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Invitations to attend the function have been sent to Lions' clubs in Harrisburg, York, Red Lion, Westminster, Chambersburg, Emmitsburg, The Mount and Frederick. Prizes for costumes and cards will be awarded. The annex will be appropriately decorated for the occasion. A buffet luncheon will be served. The Leon Rambler orchestra, of Gettysburg, will furnish music for dancing.

FORESTERS AT 2-DAY SESSION

100 Experts Attend Meet At Mont Alto Which Ended Friday.

A two day reforestation conference which was held at the Pennsylvania forest research institute at Mont Alto closed on Friday noon. State Forester Joseph S. Illick of the Pennsylvania department of forests and waters was the presiding officer of the conference.

More than a hundred Foresters, representing the states of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut and West Virginia, were in attendance with foresters representing mining, water and paper companies.

Among those who took part in the discussion were Dr. James W. Toumey, Yale forest school; Dr. Hugh Baker, Syracuse university; Prof. Samuel N. Spring, Cornell university; R. D. Forbes, director, Allegheny forest experiment station; John F. Preston, Hammermill paper company; Elwood Burgess, Wilmore real estate company; Chas. R. Meek, chief bureau of extension, Harrisburg; E. F. Brouse, district forester, Norristown; Willis M. Baker, director, forest research institute; and W. G. Howard, superintendent of state forests of New York.

The subjects discussed were mainly on reforestation problems and included the following:

Factors influencing reforestation, suitable planting stock for reforestation, federal research in reforestation, reforestation and human welfare and spacing and mixture in forest planting.

A field trip was conducted by Director Baker of the research institute on Thursday afternoon. At this time an inspection was made of various study plots, forest tree plantations, and improvement cuttings and thinnings located on the Mont Alto and Michaux State Forests. An inspection was also made of the Mont Alto forest tree nursery, which is operated by the Pennsylvania department of forests and waters, with District Forester Tom C. Bradley in charge.

TAYLOR GOES ON SURPRISE TRIP

Watches Planes, Then At Last Minute Decides To Make Trip.

Harrisburg, Oct. 25 (AP).—The pilot plane of the first regular flight of the new trans-continental air mail route had a greenhorn passenger on the Harrisburg-Pittsburgh hop today in the person of Benson E. Taylor, state secretary of property and supplies.

Secretary Taylor who had never ridden in an airplane before went to the airport this morning to watch the arrival of the first planes on the route. After watching the machines come to earth, the cabinet member mentioned to his party that he would like to go for a ride, but had forgotten to bring along a heavy overcoat.

"Here you are, use mine," said a city councilman. Taylor donned the coat and went inside the plane taking his place beside Amelia Earhart, transatlantic flier, who was a passenger. Taylor was surprised to learn the identity of his fellow passenger, and others, who included Postmaster General Brown.

KILLED IN WRECK

East Brady, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP).—One man was fatally injured today when twenty empty freight cars of the Pennsylvania railroad were derailed near here. Before his death, the man said three other train riders were with him in one of the wrecked cars, but no trace of them was found.

Wanted: Calves, will pay the highest price for calves this week and next week. C. L. Reinecker, Phone 46W.

On Trial In Baker Slaying

Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate dealer, is shown entering Washington, D. C. court where he is on trial for the murder of Mary Baker, government clerk, whose body was found in a culvert near Arlington cemetery last April.

Miss Charlotte Fasold To Wed In February

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dinsmore, of Morgan Park, Illinois, announce the engagement of Mrs. Dinsmore's sister, Miss Charlotte Catherine Fasold, to Jerome Sherman, of Chestnut Hill, near Philadelphia. The wedding is scheduled for February. Miss Fasold spent three years at Gettysburg college and then finished her course at the University of Chicago. She has been teaching in Chicago since her graduation.

REBELS TRYING TO GET CONTROL

Some Leaders Undecided Whether They Will Support Junta.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 25 (AP).—Revolutionary leaders today were engaged in trying to form an organization.

Some of the military leaders in outlying districts said they had not decided whether they would support the military junta now in control at Rio de Janeiro.

The rioting, which has caused the loss of $1,000,000 or more yesterday after President Luis had been forced out of office, apparently had been checked by authorities.

Berlin, Oct. 25 (AP).—Advices received at the Brazilian legation here today said that 20 persons were killed and thirty-five were injured on the German ship Baden, when it was shelled yesterday as it attempted to leave Rio de Janeiro.

BROKER LEARNED TO HAVE ALIAS

Bail Fixed At $50,000 For Man Who Took Woman's Money.

New York, Oct. 25 (AP).—The plight of Walter M. Miller, held in $50,000 bail charged with being involved in the sale of $110,000 of worthless securities to Miss Mary Hotchkiss, of Hartford, Connecticut, was complicated Friday by reports his real name is Walter Barr and that he has a palatial home at Long Beach, Long Island.

Deputy Attorney General Calanese, who is investigating eight other charges of stock swindling against Miller, said the reports reached him in anonymous telephone calls. The callers said Miller's wife was known as Mrs. Barr at Long Beach.

Calanese said if the reports prove true he will seize any bank accounts Miller has under the name of Barr. He added that Miller admitted he was married and that he had a home on Long Beach.

AIELLO TRIED IN VAIN TO ESCAPE

Enemies Trained Three Machine Guns On Gang Chief.

Chicago, Oct. 25 (AP).—The assassination of Joe Aiello, wealthy alcoholic king and foe of Al Capone, was viewed by police today as a possible forerunner of future slayings in Chicago's gangland.

In this connection belief was expressed that George "Bugs" Moran, reputed partner of Aiello, may be the next target of machine gun bullets.

Chicago, Oct. 25 (AP).—Gangland's killers have gone into action again. A "big shot" and a plain hoodlum were assassinated within twenty-four hours.

While the Crime commission was scratching from its list of public enemies the names of Joe Aiello, the body of John Guida, hoodlum, of the West Side "42" gang, was found behind the bar of a deserted saloon. Police looked for Joseph Liebrock, owner of the saloon. An extortion plot was advanced as a possible cause of Guida's death.

Aiello went the way of Dion O'Banion, Hymie Weiss and other North Side gang bosses. Dozens of machine-gun bullets pierced his body—fired from ambush.

The gang chieftain was shot down the first time he appeared on the streets in a fortnight.

Planned Flight In Aiello's pocket was a railroad ticket for Texas, indicating, police said, that he feared for his life and was ready to flee to a "healthier climate," probably Mexico.

His widow and children told the police he had not slept at home for a month, although he had communicated with them by telephone.

The assassin's guns, planted at three strategic points, sprayed apartment buildings, terrorized citizens, loaded the hapless gangster with dozens of slugs and scared speechless a taxicab driver, who stood at the curb ready to take Aiello away.

Aiello drew the initial fusillade as he stepped outdoors to enter the taxicab. The fire came from the window of a dark apartment across the street. He fled into an alleyway.

Another machine gun from a third-floor window in a second building swept that haven. He stumbled, wounded and ran toward an alley. From there came a third hail of bullets and he dropped under a hedge.

87 MINE'S TRAPPED

Saarbruecken, Germany, Oct. 25 (AP).—Eighty-seven miners were entombed today by an explosion in a coal mine here. Five injured men were taken from the shaft.

WEATHER REPORT

Partly cloudy tonight and slightly colder in the central and east portions. Sunday fair,

Students Assisting Pastor Of Church

Three ministerial students enrolled at Gettysburg theological seminary have been secured to assist the Rev. Dr. Walter H. Traub, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, in York.

Several weeks ago, the new system at the church was put into effect and is expected to be fruitful in its operation. Two of the young men are members of the congregation. They are Paul Sheffer and Philip Senft, both of York. The third assistant is Hugo Schroeder, of Dolgeville, New York. All three are members of the second year class of the Gettysburg seminary.

MISSION GROUP TO MEET SOON

Program Of Conference Outlined: Box Lunch Planned.

The Adams county conference of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Synod of West Pennsylvania will be held in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Littlestown, the Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor, Thursday, October 30, with afternoon and evening sessions.

The program follows: 1:30 p. m., registration; 2 p. m., devotional service, Mrs. Paul Gladfelter; welcome, Mrs. David S. Kammerer; response, Mrs. Dwight Putman; roll call with Scriptural Response; business; solo, Mrs. L. D. Snyder; echoes from Racine, Sister Anna Melville; message from department secretaries; "Life and in Memoriam"; prayer, benediction, Mrs. S. H. Smith; social hour.

Evening session, 7:30 o'clock, music, choir; Vespers, the Rev. David S. Kammerer; Scripture reading; prayer; hymn; address, "South America," Miss Corinne Menges; pageant, "The Message of the Cross"; business; offering; hymn; benediction; adjournment.

Delegates may take a box lunch or be served with a hot luncheon at a nominal price by women of St. Paul's church. Delegates are requested not to forget the offering for the support of the Indian Protege. The officers of the conference are: President, Mrs. E. J. Bowman, Gettysburg; vice president, Mrs. H. E. Serff, East Berlin; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. C. Brinton, Hanover.

80 ATTEND SIXTH ANNUAL DINNER

Dr. Frank Kramer Speaks At Eastern Star Banquet.

Eighty persons attended the sixth annual banquet of the Gettysburg chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, at the Blue Parrot tea room, Chambersburg street, Friday evening. Many of the members were accompanied by their husbands.

Dr. Frank Kramer, of Gettysburg college, worthy patron of the lodge, was toastmaster. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. C. F. Daley, Buford avenue, worthy matron. Other speakers included Mrs. Martha Sayford, Harrisburg, district deputy; Mrs. Rudolph Rosenstengel, Gettysburg, and Dr. Otto Mueller, Gettysburg.

Out-of-town guests were present from Harrisburg and Waynesboro. A color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the decorations and favors. A duckling dinner was served.

The banquet marks the sixth anniversary of the institution of the local lodge.

Identify Youth By Means Of His Cap

Philadelphia, Oct. 25 (AP).—By means of a frayed cap with the words "Boost Greenville, South Carolina," written on the lining, police today identified a boy who was killed here yesterday.

The boy's father, Budd Johnson, a Greenville detective, identified the boy over the telephone as Boyd Johnson, 16, who left home ten days ago to seek a job in Philadelphia. The boy had made himself a bed under a pile of straw in Camden at a building operation. At dawn, a truck backed up to take away materials and the heavy wheels crushed the life out of the sleeper under the canvas.

GET LONG SENTENCES

Seranton, Oct. 25 (AP).—Pleading guilty to burglary charges in the county courts here today, Frank Brown, 21, and Rudolph Carter, both of Chicago, were sentenced to serve five to ten years in the eastern penitentiary.

Fraud Victim

Mary Hotchkiss, of Hartford, Conn., charged that Walter Miller, of New York, took $110,000 from her by selling her stock under false pretenses.

ELIAS SPAHR DIES FRIDAY

Retired Shoemaker Is Victim Of Complication Of Diseases.

Elias Spahr, 81, retired New Oxford shoemaker and farmer, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Curtis Rely, Spring Grove R. 3, Friday evening, of complications. He had gone to his daughter's home in July.

Mr. Spahr was born in the vicinity of East Berlin, and farmed in that vicinity for many years. He retired from farming after the death of his wife seventeen years ago. He was a shoemaker in New Oxford for eight or nine years.

Surviving are the following sons and daughters:

Lewis H. Spahr, York street; Mrs. Luther Markel, York Springs R. D.; George Spahr, New Oxford R. D.; Clayton Spahr, East Berlin; Mrs. Curtis Rely, Spring Grove R. 3; Mrs. Calvin Lease, Spring Grove, and Mrs. George Kimmel, York.

One sister, Mrs. Lovina Kline Hanover; ten grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but interment will be at East Berlin.

Funeral services will be held from the Rely home Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Interment at East Berlin.

U. B. Women Hold Institute Session

Miss Lottie Spessard, missionary on furlough from the Philippine Islands, in charge of the San Fernando union, addressed the Women's Missionary institute of the United Brethren churches of York, York county and Gettysburg, at both the afternoon and evening sessions held yesterday in the First United Brethren church in York.

The afternoon meeting was attended by over fifty women, representing many towns from both counties.

Miss Spessard spoke on the customs and people of the islands, also giving an account of her work in the hospital. The session opened at 2 o'clock with Mrs. M. R. Fleming, of Red Lion, superintendent, in charge.

The program was as follows: Greetings extended by Mrs. Fleming; "Meditation Period," Mrs. Edna Wolfing, of Chambersburg; "Witnessing Our Work," by Mrs. John H. Ness, assisted by Mrs. C. M. Ankerbrand, of Winterstown; Mrs. Charles Smith, of Red Lion; Mrs. Paul Hostetter and Mrs. Jerome Stambaugh, of York.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Oct. 25 (AP).—The stock market once more showed inability to accomplish more than a two day rally today although most of the advances of the past few days were maintained. Profit taking was the tendency throughout the morning trading. Farm implement shares were conspicuously weak while losses elsewhere were mostly fractions of a point. The closing tone was heavy.

WEEK'S WEATHER

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP).—The weather outlook for the week beginning Monday: Rains about Wednesday and again at end of week. Cold at beginning, warmer middle part of week, and slightly colder towards the end.

The new Majestic electric refrigerator is here. See it at Weis's.

COUNTY VOTERS TOTAL 20,049; DEMOCRATS LEAD

More Women Belong To G. O. P. Party, But Men Prefer Democratic.

WOMEN LEAD IN REGISTRATION

There are approximately 100 more voters registered as democrats in Adams county than there are persons registered as members of the Republican party, data issued today by George D. Thorn, chief of the election bureau in Harrisburg, reveals. The total registration is 20,049.

However while the democrats have the edge on the republicans in the total, the women registered as republicans number more than those registered as democrats, while a majority of the male voters of this section appear to favor the democratic organization.

The totals for each sex in the two parties are: men registered as republicans, 4620; women registered as republicans, 4301; men registered as democrats, 4789; and women registered as democrats, 4246.

Non-partisan Vote The biggest unknown factor in the county vote from the registration tables appears to be the 1576 women who have registered themselves as non-partisan in the county. Only 488 men have registered under this heading.

There are 15 men registered in other parties and 14 women are in the same classification. The total number of registered voters for all political divisions in the county is 20,049.

There are 225 more women registered as voters in the county than there are men, so that the women's vote remains a potent factor in deciding who will get majorities in the November election in the district.

There are 10,137 women on the registration lists while there are only 9912 men.

York County Vote There are 74,856 registered voters in York county, and of these, 16,638 men are republicans, 12,575 women are republicans; 17,879 men are democrats, and 12,232 women are democrats. There are also 5,045 men who are non-partisan and 10,279 women are in the same classification.

In Franklin county, whose vote also affects the final selection of candidates voted upon in this county, there are 36,660 registered voters. Of this number, 10,003 men are republicans; 7,938 women are republicans; 5,344 men are democrats, and 3,770 women are democrats. The non-partisan voters of that county of both sexes number only slightly more than 2000.

GIVES TEA FOR GUEST, FRIDAY

Mrs. Frank B. Clutz Is Hostess At Affair For Mrs. John Clutz.

One of the lovely affairs of the autumn months was the tea held Friday afternoon by Mrs. Frank B. Clutz at her home on Broadway in honor of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Clutz, of Smyrna, Delaware.

Tall lighted candles and masses of yellow chrysanthemums lent a tea time atmosphere to the rooms in which Mrs. Clutz with her daughter and Mrs. Edwin Sier, of Chambersburg, received the guests.

Presiding at the tea table during the afternoon were Mrs. Mark K. Eckert, Mrs. John B. Zinn, Mrs. Gilbert Reen and Miss Nina Storrick. Miss Peggy Zinn, Miss Tobias and Miss Helen Bergstresser assisted with the serving.

Following the tea, Dr. and Mrs. Clutz entertained the assisting hostesses and their husbands at dinner.

3 Die In 2 Grade Crossing Accidents

Wilkes-Barre, Oct. 25 (AP).—Three men were dead Friday as a result of grade crossing accidents. Their deaths followed another grade crossing tragedy earlier in the week when a Jersey Central flyer ran into a stream of traffic of this city, killing three persons.

Two mine workers were fatally injured when a Lehigh Valley locomotive struck their auto at Port Blanchard, near here. Another man was killed when his automobile was struck by a trolley car on the Market street bridge.

PERSONAL MENTION

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Phone—Bell 266

Phone—United, 72 or 91

Mrs. Howard Hartzell and daughter, Miss Lena, and Mrs. William Zirkand, Lincoln Way east, are visiting relatives in Waynesboro.

Mrs. Elise Scharf, of the Hotel Gettysburg, returned home today after spending several days with Mrs. J. W. Parlett, Woodside, Long Island.

Members of the Business and Professional Girls' club will go to Carlisle Monday night, by bus to attend a meeting at that place.

Leonard J. Sanders, who for the past six years has been employed as a substitute railway mail clerk, was transferred to Philadelphia on October 1. His wife, who resides here, will join him on November 1 and they will make their home in that place.

Chester Ziegler has returned to Philadelphia after spending a few days with C. William Ziegler, York street.

Miss Mildred Steyerman, Thomasville, Georgia, is spending the week-end as the guest of Jessie Easterday, York street.

Mark Wible and Mr. Berkheimer, both of Scranton, are in town attending the Gettysburg-Bucknell game.

Miss Grace M. Yohe, of New Oxford, is spending the week-end with relatives in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Sterling Valentine has returned to her home in Coatesville after spending a week as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. H. Milton Valentine, Springs avenue.

Allan Fischer, Ben Harrison and Tom Brown, of Philadelphia, are guests of Mr. Fischer's parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. Hadwin Fischer, Confederate avenue, today.

Mrs. Leader, of Reading, is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Martin, Lincoln avenue.

Miss Estella Gottschall, supervisor of music in the public schools at Reedsville, and Miss Irene Schwalm, music supervisor in the schools at New Cumberland, spent Friday with Miss Dorothy Remmel, East Middle street. Miss Remmel, who is music supervisor in a number of the schools of Adams county, with her guests and Miss Elizabeth Evans, teacher of health education in the Gettysburg high school, are spending the week-end at the State Teachers' college at West Chester attending the annual reunion of the Moore society of the school.

Miss Sue K. Black, Steinwehr avenue, is spending some time at Flora Dale with her nieces, the Misses Anna and Alice Black.

Mrs. Harry J. Troxell, Broadway, and Mrs. Mervin Bream, North Stratton street, spent Friday in York.

Dr. Charles H. Huber, Carlisle street, spent Friday in Philadelphia.

Twenty-five boys of the Hun school at Princeton, New Jersey, are spending the week-end as guests of the academy.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward H. Seht, of Washington, D. C., are spending the week-end as the guests of Professor and Mrs. Rudolph Rosenstengel, Lincoln avenue.

The Misses Kathryn Grace, Frances May and Nell Manges, of Huntington, are spending several days with their grandmother, Mrs. Frank Blocher, Carlisle street.

Mrs. J. E. Musselman, Springs avenue, and Mrs. C. Arthur Griest, of Guernsey, returned Friday evening from Wilkes-Barre, where they had spent several days attending the state convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. A. D. Chidsey, of Easton, is a guest of Dr. and Mrs. George D. Stahley, Carlisle street.

Mrs. Herbert C. Alleman was hostess to the members of the Friday afternoon Literary club this week at her home on Springs avenue. Mrs. M. Hadwin Fischer, who had charge of the program, had as her subject "The Virgil Anniversary." The club will meet next week with Mrs. E. W. Tilber.

Upper End Communities

News Notes From the Biglerville-Arendtsville-Bendersville Section As Gathered By Special Times Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Weidner, of Arendtsville, left for Baltimore this morning to attend the yearly meeting of the Society of Friends which will be in session there during the coming week.

William Dill, Robert Grumbling and Robert Grumbling, Jr., of Barnesboro, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. M. T. Dill, of Biglerville, on

Renee Adoree III

Associated Press Photo. Renee Adoree, Hollywood screen actress, is a patient at a Prescott, Ariz., sanitarium. Officials of the institution said she is suffering from a physical breakdown.

Thursday.

Mrs. G. L. Tone, of Danville, Virginia, and Mrs. D. M. Bream, of Chambersburg, spent Friday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Baugher, of Aspers.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott, of Clarendon, Virginia, were luncheon guests of Mrs. Florence Michener, of Bendersville, on Friday.

E. C. Freed has returned to Gettysburg after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Bream, of Biglerville.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Underwood, of Clearfield, who for several days have been guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Underwood, of Biglerville, went to Baltimore today to attend the Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends.

Mrs. Harry Rouzer, Mrs. George Shank and Miss Lorraine Rouzer, of Guernsey, spent Friday in Carlisle.

Daniel C. Jacobs, of Arendtsville, left this morning for Johnstown where he will join Mrs. Jacobs for a week-end visit with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Cook. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs will return to Arendtsville early in the week.

Charles Longsdorf, of Biglerville, has returned from a two weeks' visit with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Longsdorf, of Elkins Park.

Mrs. Harry Whiteman, with her son, Master Tommy Whiteman, has returned to her home in Latrobe after spending a day or two with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deatrick, Biglerville.

Miss Margaret Bucher and Lester Bucher, of Biglerville, motored to State College Friday for a week-end visit. They were joined in Bedford by their brother, Clifford Bucher, of Cumberland, Maryland, who accompanied them to the college.

HEALTH TALK

"It has been but recently that nearly everyone was complaining about the torrid weather, and with good reason. With the driest and hottest summer and warmest early autumn experienced for many years, real suffering was general. However, because of the attitude now being assumed by many of these persons who bewailed the excess in temperature, it is hard to believe that they were sincere about it," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, today.

"The fact is that thousands of householders are now, by means of the furnace, maintaining an indoor temperature which they highly and vociferously resented just a few weeks ago.

"If the perversity of human nature were the only element in the situation the matter might cause a smile. But unfortunately there is very much more to it than that. Countless persons, owing to a superheated indoor temperature, are lowering their physical resistance and will catch colds. Another group will not stop with colds but will get pneumonia, a number of whom will die as a consequence.

FATHER SIGNS MURDER CHARGE

Names Wife And Brother As Culprits In Death Of Daughter.

Denver, Oct. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin was to be called into court today to answer a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of her 10-year-old stepdaughter, Leona, whose body was found in Berkeley Park Lake, October 17.

At the same time Frank O'Loughlin, uncle of the slain child, will be arraigned upon a similar charge.

Informations naming the two were filed Friday, with Lee O'Loughlin, a city detective and the father of Leona, indorsing the charges.

"I am attesting this information against my brother, Frank, not because I believe him guilty or in any way involved, but because I desire to have the accusations made against him cleared up completely," said O'Loughlin. The detective spoke no word in defense of his wife.

Statements of Mrs. O'Loughlin's attorneys to the effect "she is wholly innocent and knows absolutely nothing concerning the commission of the crime" indicated plainly that a plea of not guilty would be her answer to the murder complaint.

SCHWAB SEES A NEW PROSPERITY

Greater Era Than Ever Is Predicted By Business Leaders.

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—A greater prosperity "than America has ever before known" was forecast Friday by Charles M. Schwab.

It was echoed by James A. Tarrell, John J. Raskob and other outstanding industrialists; it was mirrored in the movement of stocks, and it found symptoms of support in developments themselves.

The federal government, through its director of unemployment relief, Colonel Arthur Woods, pointed the way by which local governments might "go far toward relieving unemployment" in about twenty states.

Public works involved the expenditure of approximately $450,000,000 and the consequent employment of many thousands of persons can be started, he indicated, if voters approve bond issues up for decision at the November elections.

In Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee and Buffalo announcements were made of men being called back to work. Chicago plans, both to provide work and relief, began taking concrete shape.

LIGHTS BURN FOR ROYAL WEDDING

Hill Towns Celebrate On Eve Of Nuptials In Italian Shrine.

Assisi, Italy, Oct. 25 (AP)—The beautiful hill towns of Umbria, from Spoleto to Assisi and Perugia, blazed Friday night with tens of thousands of lights on the eve of the wedding today of Princess Giovanna, of Italy, and Boris, bachelor king of Bulgaria.

At a given signal an enormous broom of light swept across the country like the flame of a comet. Church bells pealed forth for fifteen minutes at command of the bishop of Assisi, and every townsman and thousands of visitors swarmed the streets. In the throng were some of the most important personages in several kingdoms of Europe.

For the first time a band played the Bulgarian national anthem in the public square.

Premier Mussolini arrived and went to the Villa Venansi, belonging to the Architect Carlo Venansi, whose wife formerly was Bertha Rockwell, of Kansas City, Missouri.

SILVERSMITHS MAKE HEELS FOR SLIPPERS

Paris (AP)—A pair of black velvet evening slippers by a leading shoe designer here has handmade heels, made by a jeweler, and set with rhinestones.

The heels are hollow, of lace-like pattern and have a heel base a dime would cover, shaped like a clover.

S. S. VAN DINE DIVORCED

Minden, Nevada, Oct. 25 (AP)—Willard H. Wright, author of detective stories under the name of S. S. Van Dine, was divorced yesterday by Catherine B. Wright, who charged desertion. The couple were married in Seattle in 1907.

JOSEPH SMITH BETTER

Joseph Smith, South Stratton street, who has been ill with quinsy at his home for a week, was reported slightly improved today. He has been unable to take nourishment for a week.

"Therefore, keep the home fires burning, but keep them burning on a health basis rather than on the summer heat standard of the recent unlamented season."

Last Survivor Of Tunnel Break Dies

Steubenville, O., Oct. 25 (AP)—The toll in the collapse of a tunnel near here which buried a freight train Thursday reached three Friday with the death of the sole survivor, Louis Romano, 32, brakeman.

Romano was pinned in the wreckage of the caboose, shattered in the avalanche of stones and dirt. Two other trainmen, who, with Romano, composed the crew of the caboose, died yesterday. They were Jerry O'Sells, conductor, and E. E. Duda, brakeman. All the victims lived in Dillonvale.

AIR SERVICE IS STARTED IN U. S.

T. A. T. Planes Hop Off From Many Widely Separated Fields.

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—At four widely separated airports ten multimotored mail and passenger airplanes will leave the ground almost simultaneously this morning in the inaugural flights of Transcontinental and Western Air, Incorporated, the first passenger and mail service to connect New York and Los Angeles with all-air schedules.

Two of the airplanes, carrying Walter F. Brown, postmaster general; W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general; Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aviation, and Earl B. Wadsworth, superintendent of mail service, with other guests, took off from Newark airport, Newark, New Jersey, the New York terminal, at 8 a. m.

Kansas City Stop

Two will take off from Kansas City for New York at 6:35 a. m. and one at 8:30 a. m. for Los Angeles. From Amarilla, Texas, one will take off for New York at 7:57 a. m. and one for Los Angeles at 8:30 a. m. The other three planes will make round trips between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Passengers and mail will arrive at their transcontinental destination in thirty-six hours, after overnight stops in Kansas City.

Others in the party from New York were Miss Amelia Earhart, transatlantic flier, who is assistant to the general traffic manager of the new airline; Mrs. Louis Thaden, national president of the Ninety-Nine, women pilots' organization, and John T. Hardy, of Harrisburg, chief of the railway mail service.

Greetings Carried

In the sacks with the other mail will be several speech-recording devices by means of which greetings are being sent to Governor C. C. Young, of California; Mayor John C. Porter, of Los Angeles, and Mayor Rolph, of San Francisco.

The greetings were dictated by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York; Governor Larsen, of New Jersey; Mayor Connelton, of Newark, and Mayor Mackey, of Philadelphia. Mayor James J. Walker intended to send one, but was unable to find time to dictate his greeting.

COURT TO HEAR EXPERT ON ARMS

Chicago Criminologist To Testify At Mary Baker Murder Trial.

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—Science came into court Friday to aid the government in its effort to convict Herbert M. Campbell or murdering Mary Baker, navy department clerk.

Calvin Goddard, Chicago criminologist, testified that tests made by him in his crime detection laboratory showed that bullets found in Miss Baker's body were fired from Campbell's 42-calibre pistol.

Goddard offered to take the bullets fired from a number of pistols selected at random and then identify the guns from which they came. Charles H. Smith, chief of defense counsel, quickly accepted his challenge. The tests will be made in the presence of the jury, probably some time next week. The verdict may hang on the result.

It was the climax of the government's case against Campbell, an Arlington county, Virginia, real estate dealer.

A Washington policeman gave additional testimony about the actions and stories of Campbell, which led to the charge Campbell murdered Miss Baker.

The witness was Lieut. Edward J. Kelly and the jury listened closely while he told how Campbell identified as his a pair of pigskin gloves found with Mary Baker's clothing.

MILADY SPARKLES MUCH O' EVENINGS

New York (AP)—The evening mode is studded with jeweled clips and the smart woman sparkles by night as she has not done in many a season. She may wear a clip at the point of the V in her low-backed gown and another on her shoulder or near her waistline. One pair of clips may complete her coiffure and another adorn her evening slippers. Paste is correct for the woman for whom diamonds are impossible.

LUIS REFUSES TO RESIGN; CAPTIVE

Military Junta Takes Over Rule At End Of Three Weeks' Revolt.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 25 (AP)—A military junta Friday night rules Rio de Janeiro after overthrowing President Washington Luis in a coup d'etat accompanied by rioting and some arson.

Although announcement was made at 10 o'clock Friday morning that the president had resigned, this statement setting off great demonstrations in the principal streets of the capital, it was learned Friday night Washington Luis had not actually signed the decree. He held out against quitting, insisting he would never leave the government palace unless bound and taken by force.

Palace Is Surrounded

That the government had fallen, however, not even the foreign office questioned. Only one thing remained, and that was the formality of the president's signing on the dotted line. As he sat in his palace the building was surrounded by troops loyal to the new revolutionary movement.

Thus tonight generals of the army were provisionally in charge of the capital of the greatest country in South America. Apparently with the entire army and navy behind them. Three generals, Leite de Castro, Pantaleao Telles and Mena Barreto, comprise the Junta and will control the government until they are able to confer with representatives of Rio Grande do Sul, Minas Geraes and other states which opened the revolt three weeks ago. They hope as a result to establish a civil government.

President To Resign

Two new officials already have been named—Gabriel Bernardes as Minister of Justice and Colonel Sotero de Menezes as chief of police.

The best information regarding the coup d'etat is that two generals, two admirals and Cardinal Leme went last night to Guanabara palace, residence of the president, and urged him to resign.

FORESEE CRISIS OVER PALESTINE

Opposition Leaders Say British Policy Is Wrong One.

London, Oct. 25 (AP)—The MacDonald government Friday night surveyed a scene in which all opposition leaders stood united against its proposals of British policy in Palestine.

With David Lloyd George, liberal leader and one-time Premier of Great Britain, declaring in an address in Wales Friday that the British statement of policy in Palestine looked "far too much like a breach of national faith," the square of antagonism was completed.

Stanley Baldwin, conservative leader, with his lieutenants, Austen Chamberlain and Leopold Amery, previously had voiced critical protests against the statement and no leader of British Jewry had spoken a word of it.

Lord Melchett, a former cabinet minister and one of the strongest industrialists in the empire, had followed Dr. Chaim Weizmann's lead and resigned his post in the Jewish agency as a protest. Altogether, political observers said, it was not impossible that political crisis might arise out of the situation.

2 BOATS CAUGHT IN RUM BATTLE

Coast Guard Fires On Two Suspected Launches At New London.

New London, Conn., Oct. 25 (AP)—Coast guard guns blazed again Friday in a battle with two suspected rum-runners.

With five craft already to their credit as the result of previous encounters earlier in the week, the coast guardsmen in Friday's engagement riddled the liquor-laden speedboat, Helen of Newport, with machine gun bullets and one-pound shells and captured a second speedboat, the Pueblos of Bridgeport.

Carrying a liquor cargo of 1,000 cases and manned by a crew of four men who escaped injury, the Helen was beached at the edge of a breakwater on the sound side of Watch Hill Point after service vessels had pursued her from Montauk Point, across Block Island Sound and into Fisher's Island Sound.

At least eight service boats engaged in the fight with the Helen and the Pueblos. The boom of one-pound guns and the rattle of machine guns awakened residents in Stonington, while beams of light from powerful searchlights aboard the service vessels illuminated Fisher's Island Sound as they followed the flight of the speedboats. Coast guardsmen estimated that 500 rounds of machine gun bullets and about forty rounds of one-pound shells were fired during the engagement.

News From Neighboring Counties

COMMUNITIES WILL PROTEST PHONE RATES

Waynesboro—Decision to file four formal complaints before the Public Service Commission against the new rates schedule of the C. V. telephone company in the Greencastle and Mercersburg section was reached at a meeting Tuesday night in council hall, Greencastle, of committees from Mercersburg Greencastle, Mercersburg rural districts and Greencastle rural districts.

The Mercersburg and Mercersburg rural patrons of the telephone company have engaged District Attorney Clipping to present their complaints. Greencastle has selected William R. Davison, attorney, and so far as is known, Greencastle rural patrons have not made a decision, but will do so within a short time.

FREDERICK RECORD FOR OCTOBER EQUALE

Frederick—Premature winter played a mean trick on Frederick Thursday night, returning here for a longer stay than scheduled after giving evidence during Wednesday of an early departure.

The temperature slumped back to 24 degrees to equal the low mark established Monday night and come within the one degree of tying the all-time October minimum record of 23 degrees.

The temperature took its official slump after it had showed a tendency to mount during Wednesday, when it climbed as high as 56 degrees.

A very heavy frost formed during the night, killing any vegetation and flowers that withstood the attack earlier in the week. Thin ice was reported from some localities.

ARREST WORKMEN WHO THREATENED FARMER

Chambersburg—State Troopers Tacchi and Kelley Thursday morning arrested Orville Eckman, 20, of this place, and James Davis, 25, of Fort Worth, Texas, on charges of drunken and disorderly conduct. Both are old pipe line workers.

The men were found lying near a fire they had built at a culvert along the road leading from Boyer's Mill to the Warm Spring road. They were placed in the cage at police headquarters and the case was turned over to the town police, because en route to Boyer's Mill the men had driven into and damaged an electric light pole at Second and Derbyshire streets.

State police were called into the case by John Palmer of near Boyer's Mill, who reported that the men in a drunken condition had knocked at his door in early morning hours, demanding admission. Eckman is Palmer's nephew. Palmer said that when he refused Davis drew a knife on him.

HEARS ARGUMENTS IN INSURANCE CASE

York—Judges Niles and Sherwood Thursday heard arguments of counsel on exceptions to the court's finding of facts, conclusions of law and decree in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania against the Spring Garden Mutual Fire Insurance company, now defunct.

The findings of fact and conclusions of law, as contained in the report of the statutory liquidator, were adopted by the court in its decree some time ago with the exception of findings on the claim of the First National bank. There were more than twenty exceptions to the court's action and the two judges listened to counsel give reasons why the findings and decree should not stand in their respective claims.

FIREMEN PREVENT SPREAD OF FLAMES

Hanover—A small outbuilding in the rear of the home of Charles H. Warner, was slightly damaged by fire Wednesday afternoon which was extinguished by members of the Hanover fire department before the flames could spread to other adjoining structures.

Two trucks of Hanover Fire Company No. 1, and two from Eagle Fire Company, No. 2, responded to a general alarm from box No. 53, Baltimore and Pleasant streets. Chemicals were applied to the burning shed, which was filled with straw and feed, and the blaze was quickly quenched.

Sao Paulo Without Rulers; War Ends

Sao Paulo, Oct. 25 (AP)—Reports from the war zone on the frontiers of Sao Paulo and Parana States Friday said that fighting between federal and insurgent forces had been brought to a sharp halt by overthrow of the administration of President Washington Luis and announcement of peace overtures from the new military junta in the federal capital.

Troops on both sides, who have been engaged in fighting that threatened to lead to the most decisive conflict of the revolution, ceased hostile movements and waited for orders.

This commercial metropolis of Brazil, the "Chicago" of South America, was a city without a government through the overthrow of the administration at Rio de Janeiro.

A WATCH

that is

REALLY

Water-Tight

To Bulova records in the air—and on land—is now added the splendid achievement of the Watertite.

Here is a watch that is absolutely water-tight—a watch you can wear in swimming. Yet it is beautifully designed and equally suitable for dress or sports wear.

BLOCHER'S

Jewelers since 1887

25-27 CHAMBERSBURG ST.

Formerly on Center Square

WARM LUNCHES

Every Day At

SHUMAN'S

Baltimore Street

Gettysburg, Pa.

(Political Advertising)

Dr. H. M. Hartman

Democratic Candidate

For

STATE SENATOR

Native of

Adams County

—FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE—
A Sincere Candidate
YOUR VOTE WILL BE APPRECIATED

LINDBERGH ON INSPECTION TRIP

Associated Press Photo. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh (right) made an inspection trip over the eastern link of transcontinental air line. He is shown with two co-pilots, H. S. Andrews (left) and R. S. Leroy at Newark, N. J., airport before the start of the flight.

JUNIATA MAN KILLED

Hazleton, Oct. 25 (AP)—Ralph Kline, married in July and whose home was in Oriental, Juniata county, was killed today when his car upset after hitting the machine of Raymond Derr, of Newville.

EMMITSBURG WINS

Emmitsburg bowlers defeated a team from Littlestown in a bowling match at the former place Thursday night. The Maryland bowlers led by a score of 1917 over Littlestown's total of 1,780.

THE ROSE IN THE DARK

BY Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS: Hallie Elmesmore, nurse who blinded Saxely Grannock by deserting him during a crucial treatment, and Rose Conaldine, the girl he loves but never has seen, are the same person, but Grannock is kept in ignorance of the fact because Hallie's presence is a help to him during the first shock of his blindness. Only Hallie and Lester Broom, Grannock's half-brother and her ex-fiance, know that Broom detained her from her patient while he was drunk. Hallie has learned her real name is Conaldine from Mrs. Bartholomew, friend of her dead aunt. Another Rose Conaldine in New York, is told by her guardian, Mr. Perle, lawyer, that she is heiress to a $50,000 a year income. Both Roses are told their father was Clem Conaldine, suspected murderer who never was caught. Lester threatens to tell Grannock that Hallie is the nurse who blinded him, unless she marries him as originally planned. When she fails to meet Lester in New York to be married, he is told by Dr. Lytton, Grannock's physician, that Hallie is in Boston. Grannock has gone to Baltimore for further eye treatment. Meanwhile Lester has met the new New York Rose Conaldine by accident.

Chapter 23 A HUNTED WOMAN

Mr. Howard Leckett, private detective, was not, at first, especially impressed by his caller, Lester Broom. It was not until the name Conaldine was mentioned that he became alert.

"Conaldine!" he echoed.

"You know the name!" said his client. Leckett took refuge in evasion.

"It's unusual, Mr. Broom—it sticks in the mind. I suppose it's because of that manhunt there was—let me see—about twenty years ago—after Clem Conaldine, the man who was wanted for murder. You'd hardly remember it, perhaps, but it made a great stir at the time."

"Oh, that's why the name was sort of familiar to me when I first heard it! I do remember something. . . They didn't find him, did they?"

"Not so far as I know. Now, Mr. Broom, let's see if I have got this right. You want me to have a lady called Miss Conaldine, a passenger on the steamer Nantucket, coming from Portland to New York shadowed from her arrival at the wharf to where she is staying. You are certain that the lady is on board the Nantucket?"

"I've no reason to doubt it. I was told in Boston that she had left for Maine and planned to sail back to New York from Portland."

"Well, that seems simple. Can you give me a description of her? You said she was a nurse?"

"Yes. But she probably won't be in uniform, coming off the boat. She was to leave her job—her case, I suppose they call it—in Portland and taking the boat instead of the train back to New York would be on her own responsibility. A sort of holiday. But your man will pick her up easily enough. She's medium height, slender, pale—doesn't usually wear 'make-up'—and has very dark eyes and hair."

"Dark!"

Leckett made careful notes.

It was too bad, he thought, that this guided youth should come looking for a dark Miss Conaldine when there was a blonde one all ready and anxious to be claimed by someone more presentable than a retired cook-inventor, wanted for murder.

"Dark?" he insisted.

"Very dark. The darkest possible brown eyes—almost black. Her first name, by the way, is Rose. She is Miss Rose Conaldine."

"Rose!" Leckett jumped.

"I take it for granted," he said, still making notes, "that you cannot be confusing her with the Miss Rose Conaldine who is—" Again his society columns proved invaluable—"who is helping to organize the Peacock Ball at the Club Rivoli next month?"

His client began in impatient denial but stopped abruptly.

"Say, that's queer. I did meet a Miss Rose Conaldine the other day or at least she said that was her name—" He broke off while the detective, swivelling around in his chair, rummaged amongst a pile of newspapers.

"Here we are!" He dragged out a rotogravure section and fluttered the sheets. "It's my job, Mr. Broom, to keep an eye on the 'personal' columns and, as I said, the name Conaldine stuck because of its old association." He spread out a page and pointed to a paragraph of three smiles and six legs, all sprawled under a garden-awning.

Leckett was "set-wise" enough to know that this kind of crowd was not Lester Broom's kind of crowd.

"I take it," venture Leckett, "that this Miss Rose Conaldine is not the one you think is on the way from Portland to New York?"

"Oh, lord, no! This one is blonde, isn't she? With blue eyes?"

"I believe so." Leckett was guarded—very guarded. "There have been a number of gossip paragraphs during the last few days about the young lady and, as it happens, I've been informed, unofficially, that she is a bit of an heiress. Just stepped into a lot of money."

Lester burst into a gale of laughter.

"Sorry!" he said at last, composing himself. "I see now that I must have puzzled Miss Conaldine as much as she puzzled me. I was looking for the other one, you see."

"I see," murmured Leckett.

"I wonder if they're related? I should think they must be, with an identical name and an unusual one at that. But I s'pose that's beside the point."

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

"I think it is all clear," Leckett said slowly. "You simply want the address of the place where the lady puts up after coming off the boat. . . Well, you say the boat is due tomorrow evening, so you will probably hear from me by the morning mail the day after that."

"That'll be fine," said Lester, rising negligently.

"Er—there will be preliminary expenses," said Leckett. He had dealt with gilded youths before.

The sunshine lay in a golden flood outside the offices of Leckett and Hicky. Lester revelled in New York at mid-summer; and yet his conscious thought, as he turned into Fifth Avenue, was that Hallie and he, must play soon amongst the snows. Autumn in White Sulphur Springs, Christmas in Montreal. She would skate divinely with those balanced, slender limbs; and he would teach her to ski.

Lester paused before a jeweller's. Long ago he had decided that the ruby was Hallie's stone.

A long dark car hummed to the curb opposite him. He recognized the heavily enamelled woman at the wheel and concentrated his attention on the window display, hoping to escape notice. She stopped only long enough for a girl to slip out of the car. The girl crossed the street, coming straight at him. It was, he noted, with amusement, the newly fledged, press-agented, blonde Rose Conaldine.

He stepped into her path.

"Are you ever going to forgive me?" he asked.

She halted, startled, tongue-tied, helplessly ill-at-ease. He bent down to her a little, searching her face, letting his words fall softly.

"Ah, I see you won't! I don't blame you, of course. Only—I have something to tell you that might perhaps make you think a little better of me."

"No one has ever been so rude to me!" said Rose in a sudden gasp. "I don't think anything you could say would make me forgive you."

"If you'd only give me a chance," muttered Lester.

"How did you find out that I really am Rose Conaldine?" she asked, fiddling with her bag. "You—you still may not believe anything I tell you."

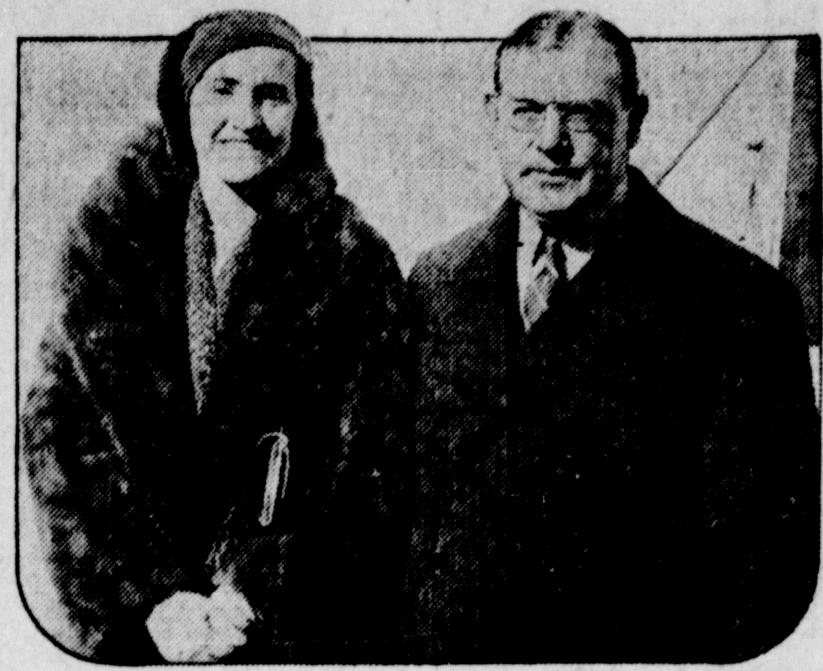

"Why, everybody's talking about you!" protester Lester. This was so obviously gratifying that he enlarged the theme. "You don't seem to realize the sensation you've caused everywhere. Half-a-dozen people have asked me if I've met you yet—and I've had to tell them that I have but didn't know it! . . ."

"Well, I mustn't stop now. I'm meeting my guardian for lunch—" she was blushing most unbecomingly.

"But I shall be dancing at the Club Rivoli tonight," she gabbled on suddenly. "You—we'll talk there, if you like. Oh, there's a taxi!"—and with a rush she had hailed it and sprung in.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

AMBASSADOR HOME FOR A HOLIDAY

Walter E. Edge, United States ambassador to France, and Mrs. Edge returned to their home in Ventnor, N. J., for a vacation. They are shown upon their arrival in New York City.

Y. W. C. A. ACTIVITIES

Plans for the year's program, election of officers and choice of advisers have occupied the girls of the Y. W. C. A. clubs of Adams county for the past week.

The Grace Dodge Girl reserves have elected Mrs. Dwight Putman and Miss Martha Larson for advisers. They are now planning a membership drive for the first week in November.

In New Oxford, the Business and Industrial Girls' club has elected Miss Kathryn Winand president. The club is entertaining the York Springs group at a Halloween party on Monday evening.

The Girl reserves of New Oxford have elected Sara Livingston president and Mrs. Richard Livingston, adviser.

Mrs. Dora Smith is president of the adult group at York Springs. The club met at the home of Mrs. Neely and discussed citizenship, under the leadership of Mrs. Leer. Miss Pearl Gardner heads the Business and Industrial group of York Springs.

In Littlestown the grade school girl reserves have chosen Miss Louise Stonesifer for adviser, and the high school girls have elected Golda Hook, Josephine Stetser and Ruth Walblack advisers; Catherine Straley is president of the business and industrial club.

The Cashtown girl reserves have reorganized with Faith Carbaugh president and Grace Kuhn adviser.

In Arendtsville the girl reserves are holding meetings and hope to find an adviser soon.

The Mapleleaf Girl reserves of Gettysburg have chosen Mrs. Amanda Myers and Mrs. Louise Stanton advisers. Bernice Taylor is president. The club has had a weiner roast and a recognition service for new members.

Mrs. Winebrenner is assisting the colored adult group in handicraft.

The Homecraft club of Gettysburg has elected Mrs. William Pennyl president. Its regular meeting now is 2:30 o'clock on Thursdays. Programs have included discussions on citizenship, purpose of the Y. W. C. A., food, menus and handicraft.

The Annie Danner Industrial club of Gettysburg is led weekly in Bible study by Miss Steward, Y. W. C. A. secretary. It has also had citizenship discussions led by Miss Helen Cope and Mrs. Alteman.

The Business and Professional club of Gettysburg is also discussing citizenship under Mrs. Alteman's leadership. The club is invited to a Halloween party at Carlisle on Monday evening. Miss Floranna Fox is the newly elected president.

Five of the girl reserve advisers attended the adult guidance conference for girl reserve workers at Germantown October 17-19. The conference discussed girl problems in family and community relations.

The Y. W. C. A. has secured the services of Miss Elizabeth Wood to catalogue the library and inaugurate a new filing system.

Plans for the year's program, election of officers and choice of advisers have occupied the girls of the Y. W. C. A. clubs of Adams county for the past week.

The Grace Dodge Girl reserves have elected Mrs. Dwight Putman and Miss Martha Larson for advisers. They are now planning a membership drive for the first week in November.

In New Oxford, the Business and Industrial Girls' club has elected Miss Kathryn Winand president. The club is entertaining the York Springs group at a Halloween party on Monday evening.

The Girl reserves of New Oxford have elected Sara Livingston president and Mrs. Richard Livingston, adviser.

Mrs. Dora Smith is president of the adult group at York Springs. The club met at the home of Mrs. Neely and discussed citizenship, under the leadership of Mrs. Leer. Miss Pearl Gardner heads the Business and Industrial group of York Springs.

In Littlestown the grade school girl reserves have chosen Miss Louise Stonesifer for adviser, and the high school girls have elected Golda Hook, Josephine Stetser and Ruth Walblack advisers; Catherine Straley is president of the business and industrial club.

The Cashtown girl reserves have reorganized with Faith Carbaugh president and Grace Kuhn adviser.

In Arendtsville the girl reserves are holding meetings and hope to find an adviser soon.

The Gettysburg Times

Member of The Associated Press.
Published Every Weekday Evening by Times and News Publishing Company, Gettysburg, Penna.
Non-partisan in Politics.
Entered at the Post Office at Gettysburg as second class mail.
HERBERT L. GRIMM,
Editor and General Manager.
SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One month, 40 cents.
One year, by carrier, $4.50.
One year, by mail in Adams county, $4.00.
One year, by mail outside county, $4.50.
Single copies, three cents.
Office on Carlisle street.
Telephone—Bell, 206. United, 72 and 91.
National Advertising Representatives,
George B. David Co., Inc., 110 E. 42nd
St., New York; 1900 Wrigley Bldg.,
Chicago; 165 Star Bldg., St. Louis;
306 Coca Cola Bldg., Kansas City, and 544 Market Street, San Francisco.

A THOUGHT for the DAY

By
AMOS R. WELLS
Radio Lighthouses
To Guide Airplanes!
"That we might humble ourselves before our God, to seek of Him a straight way."
Read EZRA 8:21-23.

THE government is building eight powerful radio stations, scattered over the country, for the purpose of guiding airplane pilots. These stations will have a much greater range than the sixty-five similar stations now existing. They will send out radio messages constantly, and will obviously, add much to the security of flights, as well as advancing air transportation. Have we anything analogous to this in the difficult passage through our mortal lives? We certainly have, only our guiding stations are far more intimate, far more efficacious. They are our prayers to the heavenly Father. He will tell us where to go and what to do. Yes, and He will send through the wilderness either the very strength we need to do our work, the very wisdom we need to plan and to execute. What no radio station will ever be able to do for the airplane pilot, this radio station of prayer will do for us and has been doing through all the ages for God's believing children.

(Copyrighted by Christian Herald)

Out of the Past

Happenings of Days Gone by as Chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times, the Files Reveal

TEN YEARS AGO

Farmers' Day in Gettysburg Success from Start to Finish.—From the opening of the exhibits at 9 o'clock in the morning until the last note of the college jazz orchestra Thursday night, Farmers' Day was an unqualified success. The parade, the largest and most feature filled in the history of Farmers' Days in Gettysburg lived up to the expectations of the thousands who gathered along the sidewalks to view it. Chief Marshall William B. McIlhenny and his aides Clifford Bream and Harry Carbaugh headed the procession on horseback, closely followed by the Gettysburg citizens band. Next in line were fifty-one members of the American Legion posts of Adams county. The Wexville band marched between soldiers of the past—the American Legion delegation—and soldiers of the present—the officers and men of the EightyThird Field Artillery. Gettysburg Knights of the Mystic Chain, York Springs band and eight automobiles were followed by the Gettysburg college band and seventy-five members of the student body. Next came the display automobiles and the Bendersville band, and the Gettysburg fire company. Parade Prize Winners. Fifteen dollars for the best float, George Motter, Littlestown; $10, second

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS
THE BEAUTY OF COMMON THINGS

NO ONE need starve for lack of beauty. It is everywhere—and often found in the simplest and commonest places! There is something fascinatingly beautiful to me about a woodpile. (I haven't always thought so.) I love to come across one in some out-of-the-way place. This summer, while touring through uninhabited areas, I would note a woodpile here and there, hidden some distance away among the trees. It made me think that someone had thought ahead—and I could picture many a happy open fire because of that very woodpile. I love the golden dandelions in the springtime, and the late tiny blue and white flowers that peep out from the tall grass in the autumn. I keep thinking about the simple, wholesome and hospitable fisher folk scattered along the rugged coast of Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island, which I visited this last summer. There was great beauty in the sincere, honest way they lived. I like to sit on the floor with a child and watch it play with its toys, and I like to engage that child in talk. There is extraordinary beauty to the simple faith and trust and imaginings of this child mind. Everywhere, in the country, you come in contact with the beauty of common things. Lanes, dirt paths, mail boxes along in front of houses, the old, far spreading branches of the great trees beside the road, the barnyard with its chickens, pigs, cattle, horses and old tools scattered around. All these things are clustered with memories and with tasks of usefulness to their credit. When we get our minds all cluttered up with strange theories and unproven assumptions we are apt to lose much of the beauty that crops out from simple minds, and the result is confusion and doubt. I have a habit of picking up the commonest stone as I walk in the woods or in new countries never visited before. I like to speculate upon the composition of each, for nothing is too common not to have meant something to this earth. Even the tiny grain of sand is important!

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

SEEKING PERFECTION
She loved him so, she could not bear
To see him do one foolish thing.
A careless act was pain to her.
A fault would set her shuddering
And scolding when she wished to weep
She thought that way his love to keep.
O'er trifles others noticed not
She grieved and fretted night and day.
Each tiny speck became a blot.
Each flaw a thing to rub away.
He took her censure for disdain
And never guessed 'twas born of pain.
"Nag! Nag!" he cried. "That's all you do,
My faults are all you ever see!
From such a scolding dame as you
I'll ask the courts to set me free!"
She lost him, but he doesn't know
It was because she loved him so.

Dog Hill Paragraphs

By GEORGE BINGHAM

Slim Pickens attended the Magistrate court at Bounding Billows Wednesday, and he said when the Magistrate was called on to decide a case he put his fingers to his forehead just like anybody does when they are thinking.

Luke Mathews announces that the wandering gourd vine he planted last summer is still going good, and he believes it is trying to reach the stable or some other shelter before frost.

Jeff Potlocks says the farmers are going to be a mighty busy set of folks this autumn if they do everything the experts advise them to do.

The drought certainly did play havoc with Raz Barlow's Sunday necktie, which drew up so he could hardly carry a tune in the choir.

The county poorhouse keeper, near Tickville, announces that no matter how eligible they may be for entrance, nobody with an auto will be admitted there this winter.

Stallsmith, Margaret Williams, Russell Stauffer, Harold Mumper, Harry Saul, Ralph Stoner, Richard Wolf, David Yohe, Ralph Sterner, Percy Eichelberger, Henry Scharf, Ralph Sterner, John Crum and Maurice Stallsmith.

Eck—Little.—At a nuptial high mass performed in St. Joseph's Catholic church, Bonneville, this morning, Miss Sarah Agnes Eck, daughter of Samuel F. Eck, Mount-pleasant township, became the bride of Francis Timothy Little, son of Joseph I. Little, also of Mount-pleasant township.

Dr. J. L. Nichols officiated at the ceremony while George Smith acted as best man and Miss Violet Topper as bridesmaid.

Personal.—John Miller, United States Navy, a member of the crew U. S. S. Florida, is spending several days with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Miller, Steinwehr avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller, Buford street, announce the birth of a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. McC. Swope, Mrs. Stephen Wing, son and mother-in-law and Leroy Winebrenner left by automobile for Dayton, Ohio, the residence of Mr. Wing.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Pontius, Carlisle street, announce the birth of a daughter.

Mrs. Lane Schofield, West Middle street, has gone to Pittsburgh to visit Mrs. John A. Shelling.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Dick, of Westmont, New Jersey, are visiting relatives in town.

Miss Mary Diehl, of Harrisburg, spent the week-end at her home on Stratton street.

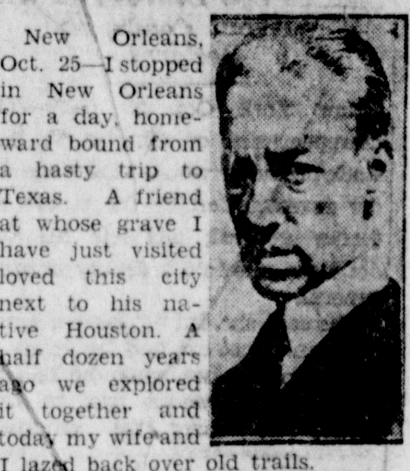

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garvin and two children have returned to their home in Philadelphia after spending some time here.

Mrs. Harold Fisher has returned to her home in York after visiting for several days with her sister, Mrs. Earl Dietrick, North Stratton street. Mrs. Charles Leach has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Paul Martin, Broadway, has gone to Reading, accompanied by her granddaughter, Judith Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, of Fresno, California, are spending two months with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wright, of Quaker Valley.

Miss Ruth Stock, Baltimore street, has gone to Philadelphia where she will spend some time.

NEW YORK
Day by Day
by O.O. McIntyre

New Orleans, Oct. 25.—I stopped in New Orleans for a day, home-ward bound from a hasty trip to Texas. A friend at whose grave I have just visited loved this city next to his native Houston. A half dozen years ago we explored it together and today my wife and I lazed back over old trails.

New Orleans is one American city preserving the sweeping charm of its antiquity. The old city, or French Quarter, continues to weave a romantic dream of a swash buckling past. Ancient porticos span narrow sidewalks and mellow mansions that stood more than 200 years ago stand untouched.

Only the inhabitants change. The Creoles, springing from that proud mixture of Spanish and French blood, have almost vanished. To the quarter swarmed Italians and a sprinkling of Negroes. But architecturally it is intact. Even the Old Absinthe House and Antoine's have withstood the carking tooth of Time.

The old city is so tightly stuffed with tradition that in its magic every little side alley becomes a boulevard and each forgotten patio a glade. There is an ecstatic ring to the street jangle, and even the winds, soft and amorous, seem to swirl in a passionate adagio. New Orleans was fashioned for poets and love.

Too, there are convents with high-walled gardens, the old slave market, graceful cathedral spires like white fingers pointing upward, and always fragrance of blooming flowers. So rapturous is the illusion it was a shock upon quitting the section to come upon a gentleman in plus fours smoking an American cigarette.

If I give impression the whole of New Orleans lives in the past, that is not the intention. Its main business artery, Canal Street, rivals famous thoroughfares of the world. More than 160 feet wide, with an electrically lighted mall down its center, it suggests the Champs Elysees and Unter den Linden.

In newer sections there is a touch and go. Only the old city nods and that is as it should be. Friv. Cobb, who accompanied us here, took off for Paducah in an aeroplane, his usually florid face chalk white and wreathed in the sickest looking smile ever hatched outside a comic paper.

Our guide, a touring car chauffeur picked up at random, proved to be the most intelligent of his guild I ever encountered. His last name is Whitaker and when you visit New Orleans ask for him of a Roosevelt Hotel starter. The city to him is a religion and he loves it with a sublimated frenzy. He was the sort to express horror over a rusted 17 century iron fence recently suffering a coat of fresh paint. "They have utterly ruined it," he said, with a quiver in his voice.

New Orleans is a paradise for antique prowlers. There seems to be block after block of nothing but shops of this sort. If you like antiques—and I wouldn't give a plugged nickel for a dray-load—the best bargains in the world are said to be here.

The city was hewed out of the Louisiana jungle swamps, once a veritable miasma, yet its mortality rate is low. Due to marshlands, cemeteries are above ground and caskets are not placed in earth but in stone crypts. The ancient and more modern burial grounds are featured in all day wagon tours of the city.

In the most unexpected place one comes suddenly upon startling beauty. In a dank and musty hallway along a mean looking street hung a crystal chandelier which had the sheen and delicacy of glistening raindrops on cobwebs. A philanthropist saved it from marauders, specifying it must hang in its original place. It might easily be stolen, but it isn't. New Orleans has that sort of civic pride.

We passed through a smoldering sort of shambles, once the famous New Orleans cribs at the tiny windows of which painted and wicked ladies beckoned the roystering passersby. The ladies have gone the way of that famous local cocktail which I cannot spell but begins, I think, with a Z.

Three different telephone callers at the Roosevelt insisted they were relatives. And at the depot a little shaver toddled over and addressed me as "Uncle." Another 12 hours here and I'll have more kinsfolk than a Belgian hare!

I have never been in Thomasville, N. C., nor heard of it until I saw it from a train rushing north today. But it is a place where someday I'd like to live.

(Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Mysteriously Slain

Associated Press Photo
Authorities have been unable to discover a motive for the slaying of Charles Burdick, former Rhode Island state senator who was slain near the door of his home at Charlestown, R. I.

SUNDOWN STORIES

By Mary Graham Bonner

"I've got to make a telephone call," the Little Black Clock said. "You're going to turn the time ahead tonight," John remarked. "That's so," the Little Black Clock said.

"But you have to make the telephone call first?" John asked.

"At the same time," said the Little Black Clock.

He pressed a small button on a tiny box-shaped object and then said:

"Hello."

John and Peggy were watching him. He had told them he wanted them to listen to this conversation.

"Yes, and watch it, too," the Little Black Clock added.

As soon as he said "hello" they beheld a glass in the little box.

Now in the glass they saw a face.

But they listened and heard the Little Black Clock saying that they would be there in a very short time and that he was glad to see how well his good friend seemed to be.

When he had finished talking the face in the glass was no longer to be seen, but the face had been smiling and evidently speaking, for his lips had moved.

"In your day," said the Little Black Clock, "you heard about calling up people and being able to see them? Well, I only turned the time ahead a little bit, but now one can do that, you know."

"Yes, the face you saw was the face of the person to whom I was speaking, and now we're going to visit that person—a very good friend of mine."

And John and Peggy looked at each other and said:

"How things do go on and on, becoming more wonderful all the time."

Monday—"The Friend's Home."

HUNTING
Equipment
at LOW PRICES
H. H. Thomas
Hdw. Co.
York Street

PUBLIC SALE
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1930
The undersigned will sell at his farm, two miles southwest of New Oxford, the following personal property:
14 HEAD OF MILK COWS
Ranging from first to third calf, good heavy milkers, must be sold on account of barn and feed destroyed by fire.
Berkshire shoats; corn by the bushel; some fodder by the bundle.
Sale to begin at 1 o'clock, when terms will be made known by JOHN D. WOLFORD,
Harr & Miller, Auctioneers.
Bring Your PRINTING
Problems to Us
The GETTYSBURG TIMES

Little Jack
Rabbit
By David Cory

THE HUNGRY BILLYGOAT

It was a bright and beautiful morning as Little Jack Rabbit hopped out of the woodpile, under which he had slept all night, and started off on his journey of adventure, clipperly clip, lipperty lip, with never a stumble and nary a slip, his knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw.

He had gone maybe 195 hops, when from behind a bush jumped a billygoat. His long goatee made him look quite fierce, and when he lowered his head and pointed his horns at the little bunny, how do you suppose the little rabbit felt? I'll give you three guesses. But no more, although I believe you'll need a score.

Well, the little rabbit felt just like a piece of paper all crinkled up, he was so scared and frightened. And so would you be, little reader, were you no taller than our little Bunnikins. Goodness me, that old goat's horns were sharp.

"Stop, stop!" cried the little rabbit. "Don't you know who I am? Little Jack Rabbit is my name and from the Bramble Patch I came, Rail Fence Corners, Clover Dell, and I was feeling very well, until—" And with a sigh he handed his card to the old goat. But, Oh dear me! Without even a glance at the little piece of cardboard, that ill-mannered goat ate it up. Wasn't that rude of him?

"I don't like your card,—it tastes like peppermint," he grumbled a minute later. Of course it did, for the little rabbit carried his red striped candy cane in his front paws, and they were often, and most always, slightly sticky. "If you had read it you wouldn't have tasted it," politely suggested the little rabbit, not wishing to anger the old goat.

Well, by this time the old goat had raised his head, and as the points of his horns didn't stick straight out in a line toward the little bunny's eyes, our little Bunnikins felt much better. So opening his knapsack, he took out a cherry pie and generously offered it to the old goat, who ate it up in two and a half bites, and then begged for more. "Sorry, but that's the only one I have," sighed the little rabbit. "But would you enjoy a lollypop?" When that was eaten, the little rabbit fished about in his handy-andy knapsack and brought up a chocolate layer cake.

"Show me something more,—I'm from Missouri," bleated the hungry animal, wiping the crumbs from his goatee as he peeked over the little bunny's shoulder.

"A pair of rubber boots," hesitated the little bunny. And, would you believe it? that dreadful goat ate them up and asked for another pair.—beg pardon, I don't mean from "Dear, dear," sighed the little rabbit, coming across a tiny wooden whistle, "this isn't food, but you can have it."

But, wonderful to relate! Before the old goat began to chew on it he pursed up his lips in a smile and blew on it. After that he said "Thank you" and ran away, leaving our little rabbit to somehow fill his empty knapsack in the next story.

Up to October 1, Alabama farmers had been loaned $8548 in connection with the government's drought relief program.

Utahans have erected a granite monument to the memory of the City tabernacle organist.

All
You Could Ask
From Any Gasoline!
And
Get-a-way-Speed-Power! at a Price that means Many More
Miles Per Dollar!
INVEST
90c
Tax Included
TODAY IN 5 GALLONS OF EPCO
And JUDGE For Yourself
C. W. EPLEY
GARAGE
GETTYSBURG, PA.

The Community
Market Place

CLASSIFIED ADS

Use The Want
Ads—A Powerful
Pulling Force

The rate for all classified ads is one cent a word a day, but no ads will be accepted for less than 25c. Ads received by telephone must be paid for promptly on receipt of bill.

All classified ads must be in by 11 a. m. to insure publication.

Telephones
Bell, 266 United, 72 and 91

FOR SALE GENERAL

FOR SALE: PURE BRED GUERNSEY bull calf. George Kane, Biglerville, Route 2.

FOR SALE: TWO DIAMOND rings, one with single stone, and one with three stones. Call Bell 'phone 40-R3, New Oxford.

FOR SALE: ONE HUNDRED White Leghorn hens, one year old. D. H. Neely, Fairfield.

FOR SALE: FIFTY SHARES STOCK National Bank Stock, $42.00 per share. Apply Times Office.

FOR SALE: SYRUP BARRELS. American Store.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS FOR SALE. Mrs. Clem Hartman, Cashtown.

FOR SALE: GOOD PIANO, $50.00. 154 Hanover street.

FOR SALE: SMALL FURNACES, coal and gas ranges, parlor stoves at very reasonable prices. Chas. Winebrenner, 29 Breckenridge street.

FOR SALE: MODERN DINING room and living room furniture. Call or phone Mrs. Danforth, 317 N. Stratton St.

FOR SALE: PULLETS, 85 CENTS each. Jacob Routsong, Bendersville.

FOR SALE: REMINGTON AND Corona Portable typewriters, slightly used, cheap. Both phones. Open evenings. Eicholtz, New Oxford, Pa.

FOR SALE: EMPTY BARRELS for cider from 5 to 50 gallons. American Coughage Company, Kresson & Fayette Sts., Baltimore, Maryland.

FOR SALE: PLAYER PIANO, in perfect condition, make offer. C. F. Bodley, Strand apartment.

FOR SALE: APPLES, STARKS, Yorks, Roman Beauty, Stayman. Thirty, fifty and seventy-five cents per bushel. Also cider and apple butter. Custom work. Charles B. Mundorf, McKnightstown, Pa. C. V. 2X2.

FOR SALE: MOLASSES BARRELS, $1.25. Ted's Store, 222 York street.

FOR SALE: RED CROSS DOUBLE heater. Apply 127 West Middle street.

POTATOES FOR SALE: DIRECT from the field. Dwight Strausbaugh, Orrtanna. C. V. phone 633-2.

FOR SALE: FIFTY HEAD OF steers, ranging from four hundred to nine hundred pounds. P. W. Robert, Seven Stars, Pa. C. V. 943-12.

FOR RENT

FOR RENT: FURNISHED ROOM, suitable for gentleman. 57 East Middle street.

TWO APARTMENTS FOR RENT. Four rooms and bath, hot water, porch, cool cellar, heat, immediate possession. Storm's Bakery, York street.

FOR RENT: EIGHT ROOM HOUSE on North Stratton street. Newly painted and papered. Possession November 1. Apply 38 N. Washington street.

FOR RENT: FIVE ROOM APARTMENT, second floor, 316 York street.

FOR RENT: FURNISHED APARTMENT, 45 East Middle street.

FOR RENT: TWO READY FURNISHED rooms on second floor. Apply 24 West Middle St.

FOR RENT: TWO NEW MODERN brick houses on Baltimore street, October 1. Thomas J. Winebrenner and Son.

FOR RENT: DESIRABLE FIVE room apartment, first block Baltimore street. Apply by letter R, care Times Office.

FOR RENT: GARAGE. APPLY 35 East Lincoln avenue.

FOR RENT: PROPERTY, ALL conveniences. Seminary Ridge. Franklin Rudisill.

FOR RENT: FOUR ROOMS SUITABLE for light house-keeping. Apply Box 144, Biglerville.

FOR RENT: FRONT APARTMENT, $35.00 per month. Apply Kendehart Pool Room, Chambersburg street.

FOR RENT: FIRST AND THIRD floor apartments. First floor would make desirable office for doctor. Will alter to suit tenant. Apply 28 Chambersburg street.

FOR RENT OR SALE: PROPERTY in Bendersville. Apply H. E. Resroth, York Springs Route 3.

FOR RENT: FIVE ROOM APARTMENT. Apply Henry Kalbfleisch.

Between the years of 30 and 40 the basis of future property or fortune is being laid.

GETTYSBURG NATIONAL BANK

HELP WANTED

LADIES WANTED: TO STRING beads at home. Stamped addressed envelope for particulars. Experience unnecessary. Ivory Novelty Co., 113 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

WANTED: MIDDLE-AGED woman for housekeeper on farm, for family of three. C. W. Singler, Arendtsville. Local phone 1-11 Biglerville.

LADIES WANTED TO STRING beads at home. Stamped addressed envelope for particulars. Experience unnecessary. Ivory Novelty Co., 113 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

WANTED: MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN for housework in small family. Apply letter Z, care of Times Office.

WANTED: MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN for housework. Apply J. T. Riggeal, Cashtown, Pa.

WANTED

WANTED: TWO FURNISHED rooms for light housekeeping, centrally located. Address letter X, care Times Office.

WANTED: THREE OR FOUR room furnished apartment. Call C. V. phone 34W.

POSITION WANTED

WANTED: SEWING OF ALL kinds. Also quilting. Mrs. R. L. Kidwell, Gettysburg Route 10.

POSITION WANTED: AS CLERK in store by married man. Experience. Apply Letter H, care of Times Office.

LOST

LOST: FORD RIM AND TIRE. Finder please return to 324 West Middle street.

LOST: KHAKI BLANKET ON Biglerville road, Tuesday evening. Reward if returned to 154 Hanover street.

MISCELLANEOUS

WANTED-HELP: THERE IS NO secret that we would like it possible to serve you with Freihoff's or Glade Valley bakery products. Your patronage will help us. We make daily deliveries. Just call by phone, Local 9Y. See us at market, First National bank building, every Saturday, 6 a. m. to 10 p. m.

PUBLIC AUCTION OF FURNITURE and household goods Saturday afternoon, October 25, at shop, North Washington street. Charles S. Mumpsey.

FOR FRESH HOME-MADE PIES, cakes of all kinds, home-made candy, potato salad, the old-time boiled mush at Stand No. 11, Market House, Center Square, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Mrs. H. H. H. Culp, Culp Farm.

ORDER NOW FOR YOUR HALLOWEEN party. Home-made pumpkin pies, ginger bread, candy, potato salad and cider. Mrs. H. H. Culp, Culp Farm, Bell 'phone 204J, or Stand No. 11 Market House, Center Square.

HELP WANTED: 200 MORE FAMILIES wanted to be users of Freihoff's fine bakery products. "The bread with the home-like flavor." Big loaf now 9 cents. Storm's Bakery, distributors for Gettysburg. Phone orders, 9Y. We make daily delivery.

HAS THE "RACKET" REACHED The Bench? "Ex-Judge" author anonymous, one of the most daring and exciting stories ever written, begins in Monday's Philadelphia Record. Order it now through your carrier.

ATTENTION ODD FELLOWS. ALL out on Tuesday evening. Social night and Refreshments.

PLAY: "THE MYSTERY OF THE Third Gable" will be given at "The Pines" Hall Wednesday, October 29, at 8 o'clock.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving remembrance of Mrs. J. A. Kane, who died twelve years ago, October 25, 1918. By her husband, J. A. Kane.

LEGAL NOTICES

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE
In re estate of Samuel L. Rice, late of Franklin Township, Adams County, Pennsylvania, deceased.
Letters testamentary on the above estate having been duly granted to the undersigned executor by the Register of Wills of Adams County, all persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment, and those having claims or demands against the same are notified to present them without delay to THE GETTYSBURG NATIONAL BANK, Gettysburg, Pa.

Executor of the will of Samuel L. Rice, deceased.
Or to J. Donald Swope, Esq., Gettysburg, Pa.
Attorney for estate.

EXIDE BATTERY SERVICE STATION
Batteries Recharged and Repaired
GOODRICH TIRES
OYLER TIRE COMPANY
104½ Carlisle St., Gettysburg, Pa.

Lincoln Way Garage
Official Johns-Manhood Brake Lining Service Station
Batteries Repaired and Charged

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
4% on Savings of Gettysburg, Penna.

523 NURSERIES
GET STATE'S O.K.Inspectors Examine Stock of County Plants in Investigation.

Five hundred and twenty-three nurseries were permitted to sell nursery stock in Pennsylvania during 1930, and these contained 7,690 acres of stock, consisting of every conceivable type of trees and other plants adapted to use in this commonwealth, according to F. M. Trimble, chief nursery inspector, bureau of plant industry, Pennsylvania department of agriculture.

To carry out the provisions of the law, nursery inspectors made almost 2,000 inspections this year, finding and requiring the eradication of any infestations of nursery pests before issuing permits.

The six nursery inspectors who covered the state report high quality stock being grown in this section and throughout the commonwealth, as is evidenced by the fact that permits were refused only ten applicants, compared with thirty-seven a year ago.

These refusals represent a very small acreage in proportion to the total amount of nursery stock grown and is regarded as especially encouraging since there exists sixty-two known pests of young plants with which nurserymen must contend.

The bureau of plant industry

Good and choice, 600-900 pounds, $11.50a; 13; 900-1,100 pounds, $10.25a; 15; 1,100-1,300 pounds, $9.50a; 17; 1,300-1,500 pounds, $9.25a; 19; 1,500-1,700 pounds, $9.00a; 21; 1,700-1,900 pounds, $8.75a; 23; 1,900-2,100 pounds, $8.50a; 25; 2,100-2,300 pounds, $8.25a; 27; 2,300-2,500 pounds, $8.00a; 29; 2,500-2,700 pounds, $7.75a; 31; 2,700-2,900 pounds, $7.50a; 33; 2,900-3,100 pounds, $7.25a; 35; 3,100-3,300 pounds, $7.00a; 37; 3,300-3,500 pounds, $6.75a; 39; 3,500-3,700 pounds, $6.50a; 41; 3,700-3,900 pounds, $6.25a; 43; 3,900-4,100 pounds, $6.00a; 45; 4,100-4,300 pounds, $5.75a; 47; 4,300-4,500 pounds, $5.50a; 49; 4,500-4,700 pounds, $5.25a; 51; 4,700-4,900 pounds, $5.00a; 53; 4,900-5,100 pounds, $4.75a; 55; 5,100-5,300 pounds, $4.50a; 57; 5,300-5,500 pounds, $4.25a; 59; 5,500-5,700 pounds, $4.00a; 61; 5,700-5,900 pounds, $3.75a; 63; 5,900-6,100 pounds, $3.50a; 65; 6,100-6,300 pounds, $3.25a; 67; 6,300-6,500 pounds, $3.00a; 69; 6,500-6,700 pounds, $2.75a; 71; 6,700-6,900 pounds, $2.50a; 73; 6,900-7,100 pounds, $2.25a; 75; 7,100-7,300 pounds, $2.00a; 77; 7,300-7,500 pounds, $1.75a; 79; 7,500-7,700 pounds, $1.50a; 81; 7,700-7,900 pounds, $1.25a; 83; 7,900-8,100 pounds, $1.00a; 85; 8,100-8,300 pounds, $0.75a; 87; 8,300-8,500 pounds, $0.50a; 89; 8,500-8,700 pounds, $0.25a; 91; 8,700-8,900 pounds, $0.00a; 93; 8,900-9,100 pounds, $0.00a; 95; 9,100-9,300 pounds, $0.00a; 97; 9,300-9,500 pounds, $0.00a; 99; 9,500-9,700 pounds, $0.00a; 101; 9,700-9,900 pounds, $0.00a; 103; 9,900-10,100 pounds, $0.00a; 105; 10,100-10,300 pounds, $0.00a; 107; 10,300-10,500 pounds, $0.00a; 109; 10,500-10,700 pounds, $0.00a; 111; 10,700-10,900 pounds, $0.00a; 113; 10,900-11,100 pounds, $0.00a; 115; 11,100-11,300 pounds, $0.00a; 117; 11,300-11,500 pounds, $0.00a; 119; 11,500-11,700 pounds, $0.00a; 121; 11,700-11,900 pounds, $0.00a; 123; 11,900-12,100 pounds, $0.00a; 125; 12,100-12,300 pounds, $0.00a; 127; 12,300-12,500 pounds, $0.00a; 129; 12,500-12,700 pounds, $0.00a; 131; 12,700-12,900 pounds, $0.00a; 133; 12,900-13,100 pounds, $0.00a; 135; 13,100-13,300 pounds, $0.00a; 137; 13,300-13,500 pounds, $0.00a; 139; 13,500-13,700 pounds, $0.00a; 141; 13,700-13,900 pounds, $0.00a; 143; 13,900-14,100 pounds, $0.00a; 145; 14,100-14,300 pounds, $0.00a; 147; 14,300-14,500 pounds, $0.00a; 149; 14,500-14,700 pounds, $0.00a; 151; 14,700-14,900 pounds, $0.00a; 153; 14,900-15,100 pounds, $0.00a; 155; 15,100-15,300 pounds, $0.00a; 157; 15,300-15,500 pounds, $0.00a; 159; 15,500-15,700 pounds, $0.00a; 161; 15,700-15,900 pounds, $0.00a; 163; 15,900-16,100 pounds, $0.00a; 165; 16,100-16,300 pounds, $0.00a; 167; 16,300-16,500 pounds, $0.00a; 169; 16,500-16,700 pounds, $0.00a; 171; 16,700-16,900 pounds, $0.00a; 173; 16,900-17,100 pounds, $0.00a; 175; 17,100-17,300 pounds, $0.00a; 177; 17,300-17,500 pounds, $0.00a; 179; 17,500-17,700 pounds, $0.00a; 181; 17,700-17,900 pounds, $0.00a; 183; 17,900-18,100 pounds, $0.00a; 185; 18,100-18,300 pounds, $0.00a; 187; 18,300-18,500 pounds, $0.00a; 189; 18,500-18,700 pounds, $0.00a; 191; 18,700-18,900 pounds, $0.00a; 193; 18,900-19,100 pounds, $0.00a; 195; 19,100-19,300 pounds, $0.00a; 197; 19,300-19,500 pounds, $0.00a; 199; 19,500-19,700 pounds, $0.00a; 201; 19,700-19,900 pounds, $0.00a; 203; 19,900-20,100 pounds, $0.00a; 205; 20,100-20,300 pounds, $0.00a; 207; 20,300-20,500 pounds, $0.00a; 209; 20,500-20,700 pounds, $0.00a; 211; 20,700-20,900 pounds, $0.00a; 213; 20,900-21,100 pounds, $0.00a; 215; 21,100-21,300 pounds, $0.00a; 217; 21,300-21,500 pounds, $0.00a; 219; 21,500-21,700 pounds, $0.00a; 221; 21,700-21,900 pounds, $0.00a; 223; 21,900-22,100 pounds, $0.00a; 225; 22,100-22,300 pounds, $0.00a; 227; 22,300-22,500 pounds, $0.00a; 229; 22,500-22,700 pounds, $0.00a; 231; 22,700-22,900 pounds, $0.00a; 233; 22,900-23,100 pounds, $0.00a; 235; 23,100-23,300 pounds, $0.00a; 237; 23,300-23,500 pounds, $0.00a; 239; 23,500-23,700 pounds, $0.00a; 241; 23,700-23,900 pounds, $0.00a; 243; 23,900-24,100 pounds, $0.00a; 245; 24,100-24,300 pounds, $0.00a; 247; 24,300-24,500 pounds, $0.00a; 249; 24,500-24,700 pounds, $0.00a; 251; 24,700-24,900 pounds, $0.00a; 253; 24,900-25,100 pounds, $0.00a; 255; 25,100-25,300 pounds, $0.00a; 257; 25,300-25,500 pounds, $0.00a; 259; 25,500-25,700 pounds, $0.00a; 261; 25,700-25,900 pounds, $0.00a; 263; 25,900-26,100 pounds, $0.00a; 265; 26,100-26,300 pounds, $0.00a; 267; 26,300-26,500 pounds, $0.00a; 269; 26,500-26,700 pounds, $0.00a; 271; 26,700-26,900 pounds, $0.00a; 273; 26,900-27,100 pounds, $0.00a; 275; 27,100-27,300 pounds, $0.00a; 277; 27,300-27,500 pounds, $0.00a; 279; 27,500-27,700 pounds, $0.00a; 281; 27,700-27,900 pounds, $0.00a; 283; 27,900-28,100 pounds, $0.00a; 285; 28,100-28,300 pounds, $0.00a; 287; 28,300-28,500 pounds, $0.00a; 289; 28,500-28,700 pounds, $0.00a; 291; 28,700-28,900 pounds, $0.00a; 293; 28,900-29,100 pounds, $0.00a; 295; 29,100-29,300 pounds, $0.00a; 297; 29,300-29,500 pounds, $0.00a; 299; 29,500-29,700 pounds, $0.00a; 301; 29,700-29,900 pounds, $0.00a; 303; 29,900-30,100 pounds, $0.00a; 305; 30,100-30,300 pounds, $0.00a; 307; 30,300-30,500 pounds, $0.00a; 309; 30,500-30,700 pounds, $0.00a; 311; 30,700-30,900 pounds, $0.00a; 313; 30,900-31,100 pounds, $0.00a; 315; 31,100-31,300 pounds, $0.00a; 317; 31,300-31,500 pounds, $0.00a; 319; 31,500-31,700 pounds, $0.00a; 321; 31,700-31,900 pounds, $0.00a; 323; 31,900-32,100 pounds, $0.00a; 325; 32,100-32,300 pounds, $0.00a; 327; 32,300-32,500 pounds, $0.00a; 329; 32,500-32,700 pounds, $0.00a; 331; 32,700-32,900 pounds, $0.00a; 333; 32,900-33,100 pounds, $0.00a; 335; 33,100-33,300 pounds, $0.00a; 337; 33,300-33,500 pounds, $0.00a; 339; 33,500-33,700 pounds, $0.00a; 341; 33,700-33,900 pounds, $0.00a; 343; 33,900-34,100 pounds, $0.00a; 345; 34,100-34,300 pounds, $0.00a; 347; 34,300-34,500 pounds, $0.00a; 349; 34,500-34,700 pounds, $0.00a; 351; 34,700-34,900 pounds, $0.00a; 353; 34,900-35,100 pounds, $0.00a; 355; 35,100-35,300 pounds, $0.00a; 357; 35,300-35,500 pounds, $0.00a; 359; 35,500-35,700 pounds, $0.00a; 361; 35,700-35,900 pounds, $0.00a; 363; 35,900-36,100 pounds, $0.00a; 365; 36,100-36,300 pounds, $0.00a; 367; 36,300-36,500 pounds, $0.00a; 369; 36,500-36,700 pounds, $0.00a; 371; 36,700-36,900 pounds, $0.00a; 373; 36,900-37,100 pounds, $0.00a; 375; 37,100-37,300 pounds, $0.00a; 377; 37,300-37,500 pounds, $0.00a; 379; 37,500-37,700 pounds, $0.00a; 381; 37,700-37,900 pounds, $0.00a; 383; 37,900-38,100 pounds, $0.00a; 385; 38,100-38,300 pounds, $0.00a; 387; 38,300-38,500 pounds, $0.00a; 389; 38,500-38,700 pounds, $0.00a; 391; 38,700-38,900 pounds, $0.00a; 393; 38,900-39,100 pounds, $0.00a; 395; 39,100-39,300 pounds, $0.00a; 397; 39,300-39,500 pounds, $0.00a; 399; 39,500-39,700 pounds, $0.00a; 401; 39,700-39,900 pounds, $0.00a; 403; 39,900-40,100 pounds, $0.00a; 405; 40,100-40,300 pounds, $0.00a; 407; 40,300-40,500 pounds, $0.00a; 409; 40,500-40,700 pounds, $0.00a; 411; 40,700-40,900 pounds, $0.00a; 413; 40,900-41,100 pounds, $0.00a; 415; 41,100-41,300 pounds, $0.00a; 417; 41,300-41,500 pounds, $0.00a; 419; 41,500-41,700 pounds, $0.00a; 421; 41,700-41,900 pounds, $0.00a; 423; 41,900-42,100 pounds, $0.00a; 425; 42,100-42,300 pounds, $0.00a; 427; 42,300-42,500 pounds, $0.00a; 429; 42,500-42,700 pounds, $0.00a; 431; 42,700-42,900 pounds, $0.00a; 433; 42,900-43,100 pounds, $0.00a; 435; 43,100-43,300 pounds, $0.00a; 437; 43,300-43,500 pounds, $0.00a; 439; 43,500-43,700 pounds, $0.00a; 441; 43,700-43,900 pounds, $0.00a; 443; 43,900-44,100 pounds, $0.00a; 445; 44,100-44,300 pounds, $0.00a; 447; 44,300-44,500 pounds, $0.00a; 449; 44,500-44,700 pounds, $0.00a; 451; 44,700-44,900 pounds, $0.00a; 453; 44,900-45,100 pounds, $0.00a; 455; 45,100-45,300 pounds, $0.00a; 457; 45,300-45,500 pounds, $0.00a; 459; 45,500-45,700 pounds, $0.00a; 461; 45,700-45,900 pounds, $0.00a; 463; 45,900-46,100 pounds, $0.00a; 465; 46,100-46,300 pounds, $0.00a; 467; 46,300-46,500 pounds, $0.00a; 469; 46,500-46,700 pounds, $0.00a; 471; 46,700-46,900 pounds, $0.00a; 473; 46,900-47,100 pounds, $0.00a; 475; 47,100-47,300 pounds, $0.00a; 477; 47,300-47,500 pounds, $0.00a; 479; 47,500-47,700 pounds, $0.00a; 481; 47,700-47,900 pounds, $0.00a; 483; 47,900-48,100 pounds, $0.00a; 485; 48,100-48,300 pounds, $0.00a; 487; 48,300-48,500 pounds, $0.00a; 489; 48,500-48,700 pounds, $0.00a; 491; 48,700-48,900 pounds, $0.00a; 493; 48,900-49,100 pounds, $0.00a; 495; 49,100-49,300 pounds, $0.00a; 497; 49,300-49,500 pounds, $0.00a; 499; 49,500-49,700 pounds, $0.00a; 501; 49,700-49,900 pounds, $0.00a; 503; 49,900-50,100 pounds, $0.00a; 505; 50,100-50,300 pounds, $0.00a; 507; 50,300-50,500 pounds, $0.00a; 509; 50,500-50,700 pounds, $0.00a; 511; 50,700-50,900 pounds, $0.00a; 513; 50,900-51,100 pounds, $0.00a; 515; 51,100-51,300 pounds, $0.00a; 517; 51,300-51,500 pounds, $0.00a; 519; 51,500-51,700 pounds, $0.00a; 521; 51,700-51,900 pounds, $0.00a; 523; 51,900-52,100 pounds, $0.00a; 525; 52,100-52,300 pounds, $0.00a; 527; 52,300-52,500 pounds, $0.00a; 529; 52,500-52,700 pounds, $0.00

AMUSEMENTS

AMUSEMENTS

A WARNER BROS. THEATRE

MAJESTIC

Pennsylvania's Most Perfect SOUND THEATRE

World's Greatest Canine Actor

TODAY

Continuous 1:00 to 11:00

Midnite Show Sun., 12:01

RIN-TIN-TIN

"The Man Hunter"

with CHARLES DE-LANEY, NORA LANE, JOHN LODER, PAT HARTIGAN.

Adapted by James A. Starr from the story by Lily Hayward. Directed by Ross Leder-man.

A daring swim through shark infested waters—a breathtaking escape from the tigers of the sea—a beautiful lady in the toils of the Ivory thieves—an unscrupulous trader—a native up-rising—and "Rinty" racing to the rescue in new thrilling feats of skill and daring.

AN ADDED ATTRACTION

"Mickey Mouse" Comedy

Special Midnight Show Sunday 12:01 A. M.

Jack London's Best Story

"THE SEA WOLF"

with MILTON SILLS

AMUSEMENTS

AMUSEMENTS

A WARNER BROS. THEATRE

MAJESTIC

Pennsylvania's Most Perfect SOUND THEATRE

World's Greatest Canine Actor

TODAY

Continuous 1:00 to 11:00

Midnite Show Sun., 12:01

RIN-TIN-TIN

"The Man Hunter"

with CHARLES DE-LANEY, NORA LANE, JOHN LODER, PAT HARTIGAN.

Adapted by James A. Starr from the story by Lily Hayward. Directed by Ross Leder-man.

A daring swim through shark infested waters—a breathtaking escape from the tigers of the sea—a beautiful lady in the toils of the Ivory thieves—an unscrupulous trader—a native up-rising—and "Rinty" racing to the rescue in new thrilling feats of skill and daring.

AN ADDED ATTRACTION

"Mickey Mouse" Comedy

Special Midnight Show Sunday 12:01 A. M.

Jack London's Best Story

"THE SEA WOLF"

with MILTON SILLS

Expert Body and Fender Repairs

Wrecked Cars Made Like New

Auto Tops and Repairs, Commercial Bodies—Repairs, Automobile Side Curtains, Windshield and Limousine Glass Automobile Upholstering, Auto Seat Covers, Glass Installed While You Wait

Hankle Auto Top & Body Shop

East Walnut St., near York St. HANOVER, PA.

Phones: Bell 12; C. V. 88-W

DON'T PUT IT OFF!

Cold weather is just around the corner. Then you'll want COMPLETE heating comfort—comfort such as only Reading Anthracite can give. Don't put it off—call us today for this cleaner, more economical hard coal.

THAT BETTER PENNSYLVANIA HARD COAL

G. R. Thompson & Son

Both Phones

GETTYSBURG, PA.

MEN—DO YOU KNOW

That Winter Woolens are Lower in Price and BETTER in quality than ever since the war?

BREHM, The Tailor

51 Chambersburg Street

OKLAHOMA HAS SCRAPPY TEAM

Southern University Forces Way Into Limelight By Early Games.

Norman, Okla. (AP)—A band of lightweight scrapping gridsters playing under the colors of the University of Oklahoma has forced its way into consideration for the Big Six conference title.

Coach Adrian Lindsey's speedy team unexpectedly dealt a knockout blow to Nebraska's hopes for another conference title. Doped to win, Coach Dan X. Bible's Corn-huskers were sent away from here.

Then the next week, the Sooners entered a game with the University of Texas at Dallas the top heavy favorite to win, and lost a hard fought battle, 17 to 7.

Results Startle

While the results of both of these games startled the experts, not so with Sooners fans, for Coach Lindsey has a habit of doing unexpected things.

The team's non-conference defeat at Dallas is thought not to lessen greatly its chance to win the title.

In 1928 after the Oklahomans had 6 they revived suddenly to spring a surprise by beating Kansas 7 to 0 the next week-end, and then clinched the season by winning from Missouri 14 to 0.

This year Lindsey has only ten lettermen on his roster with a half dozen reserves from last season, and a small group of sophomores. The whole Sooners squad totals 31. Lindsey's team averages only 175 pounds in the line and 160 in the back-field.

2 Mainsprings

Mainsprings in the Oklahoma attack are "Bus" Mills, quarterback weighing 169, and Guy Warren, half-pint halfback weighing 140. Each galloped half the distance of the field for touchdowns against Nebraska.

Critically Ill

Robert Winthrop Chandler, noted mural painter, is seriously ill with a chronic heart ailment at his home in Woodstock, N. Y.

Lindsey's men play an open style game with their specialty long end runs, criss-crosses and passes. The sprints start from punt formation and start behind either a balanced or unbalanced line. Sheer driving power and force never have been a part of the Lindsey strategy.

Capt. Bob Fields, who played every minute of every game last season because there were no other centers, has been shifted to tackle this season because the slim squad is sadly lacking in tackles.

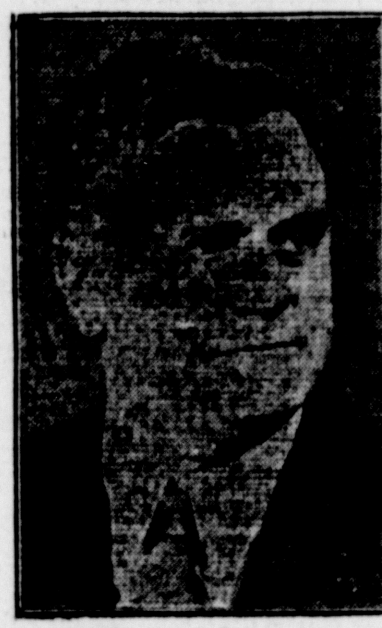

The Sooners opened the season with a 47-0 victory over New Mexico.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH

Philadelphia, Oct. 25 (AP)—Two Philadelphia men were killed and two others were seriously injured at Prospect park, near here, today when their car struck a telegraph pole. The dead men were Alfred Jeffrey, 34, and Joseph Tompkins, 35.

(Political Advertising)

WHY HARRY L. HAINES IS THE MAN FOR CONGRESS

He is a prominent and successful business man of Southern York County.

He is a man who has repeatedly demonstrated his capability as an executive and public servant.

He is a man who is respected by all for his sound judgment and broad vision.

He is a man whose lasting regard and active appreciation have made him a warm friend of all ex-service men who have come in contact with him.

He is a conscientious man whose experience fits him amply for the office he seeks and who makes one promise—"Faithful Service."

Everybody Will Be More Than Satisfied With

HARRY L. HAINES

IN CONGRESS

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Help Elect This Worthy Candidate

[The Haines for Congress Publicity Committee]

STUDY WAYS OF SAVING STEPS

Attach Pedometer To Farm Woman's Ankle To Test Experiment.

By Sue McNamara

Washington (AP)—After eliminating thousands of steps for farm women, Miss Martha Van Rensselaer, assistant director of President Hoover's White House conference on child health and protection, is studying the problems of the apartment housewife.

How to minister to the needs of a family in the confines of a modern city kitchen is something which this expert on home economics is trying to solve.

Miss Van Rensselaer was the first person to work out a scheme for saving the steps of a housewife. As county commissioner of schools in Cattaraugus county, New York, she visited many farm homes, driving a horse and buggy.

Used Pedometer

She attached a pedometer to the ankle of a farm woman in whose home she stayed and found that the woman covered 14 miles in three days just walking around her kitchen. By rearranging the kitchen and introducing some time-saving devices the kitchen traveling was reduced to seven miles for three days.

Seeing the hard lot of many farm-ers' wives, Miss Van Rensselaer sent out leaflets asking farm women if they wanted help in their problems. She received 2,000 affirmative replies.

For 30 years Miss Van Rensselaer has been trying to help women solve their economic problems.

Miss Van Rensselaer will have a prominent part in the White House conference November 19, which will be attended by 1,200 child welfare experts.

SPORT SLANTS

ALAN GOULD

ASSOCIATED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Opinion may vary as to whether Rogers Hornsby will do any better, if as well as Joe McCarthy did with the Chicago Cubs but the one-time Rajah of all hitters has wasted no time starting his reconstruction program.

Whether the Cub shake-up is of wholesale character as many expect it will be the team certainly will be considerably altered in personnel as well as spirit by the time the 1931 campaign gets under way.

Hornsby has his own ideas about baseball and has the courage to stick to them. He is not loquacious but he is plain-spoken. He is a hard fighter and expects his players to be.

I asked Hornsby during the world's series whether he hoped to play regularly next season.

"Why not?" he asked. "I'll be in shape and I don't look like an old man yet do I?"

It is not quite clear why the Giants need another third baseman, with Freddy Lindstrom among the best in the business, but they have acquired one of the Pacific Coast league aces in Johnny Vergez, a star for two years with Oakland.

Vergez hit .323 with the Oaks last year, but Eddie Murphy, writing in the Oakland Tribune, says: "Night baseball is blamed for spoiling another big year for Vergez. The third sacker was going big in the daylight, but slumped just as soon as the night play started, his average dropping to .314. He is a real third sacker and about the nearest thing to Willie Kamm when it comes to making his work look easy."

Brooklyn has led the big rush on the part of National league contenders to plug all possible loopholes well in advance of next season, which should witness another fast and furious pennant scramble.

The Robins landed two of the most-sought-after Phillie stars, Frank O'Doul and Fresno Thompson, because they had what the Quakers needed most—pitchers.

Jim Elliott and Clise Dudley may set no pitching worlds afire, but they are aces by comparison with most of the Phillie moundsmen, excepting the able Mr. Phil Collins.

Thompson and Glenn Wright will give Brooklyn the best keystone pair in the club's modern history and there will be no harder hitting outfield in either major league than the combination of O'Doul with Babe Herman and Johnny Frederick.

STRAND THEATRE

Today Your Last Chance To SEE

William HAINES

in a very funny picture with a thrilling romance

WAY OUT WEST

FRED NIBLO'S Production with LEILA HYAMS POLLY MORAN CLIFF EDWARDS

Monday and Tuesday Matinee Daily 2.15

The Flirting Widow

with DOROTHY MACKAILL Basil Rathbone Leila Hyams William Austin

Based on story "Green Stockings" by A. E. W. Mason

Wed. - Thurs. Matinee Daily 2:15

DOUBLE FEATURE PROGRAM

First Feature BOB STEEL in "THE OKLAHOMA CYCLONE"

Second Feature ALICE WHITE in "SWEET MAMA"

One of the year's BEST Western Shows. Look at Photos at the Theatre.

Inside stuff on gangsters who rule the cafe world and chorus girls.

The Eternal Stone

For centuries will the memorial stand; while the winds of the night shall blow about it and when the summer sun shall cast a smiling beam upon its glistening face . . . a record of love; standing there till Time is done.

Hammaker Brothers

MEMORIALISTS

GETTYSBURG THURMONT

HOTEL ALTLAND

ABBOTTSTOWN, PA.

Famous

Chicken and Waffle Dinner

Soup Peas Corn Whipped Potatoes Cabbage Pepper Slaw Ice Cream Coffee

All you can eat for $1.00

Madelene Gillespie

Home Service Department

Metropolitan Edison Co.

38 York Street

Will Conduct Free Cooking Demonstration Each Tuesday Afternoon at 2:00 to 3:30

FOODS SERVED — — RECIPES GIVEN

Everybody Welcome

QUALITY PRINTING

With Quick Service

The GETTYSBURG TIMES

The British government is considering establishing an air line between England and Gibraltar.

Flying scholarships will be awarded in January by the French government to applicants between the ages of 17½ and 20½ years.

Foot Saver SHOES

FOR WOMEN

Newwanger's

4 East Market Street YORK, PA.

BEAUTY HEAD OF BRAZIL'S ROADS

Washington (AP)—If some movie magnate glimpses Carmen Velasco Portinho while she is in the United States, the roads of Rio may suffer.

Here she is—slim, svelte, charming, flashy-eyed. And she is municipality engineer of Rio de Janeiro. She was sent to Washington as delegate to the sixth international road congress.

Senorita Portinho is the only woman delegate among 300 men from all over the world. With a trunkful of clothes bought in New York the little engineer was swept off her feet at the round of dances and receptions given here.

To Visit America

She will visit Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago on this, her first visit to America. Her large brown eyes are constantly flying open in surprise, her hands making eloquent gestures as she tries to express herself in English.

She has supervision of public buildings in Rio de Janeiro, but good roads to connect the buildings are essential—hence Senorita Portinho's presence at the congress.

"I come partly from curiosity, partly because I am delegate," she explains. "I have always been interested in road building. I studied engineering in college because I preferred it to any other study."

Looks About 21

Senorita Portinho looks about 21. She confesses to 25.

In her smart black silk frocks with white collars and cuffs for daytime and her sweeping, low-cut evening gowns, she is an easy engineer to look upon.

In addition to her job in Rio she is president of the Rio automobile club and of the association of university women.

An Auctioneer

who is heard by thousands of people 20 to 30 miles apart! His name is MR. CLASSIFIED COLUMN; his address is THE GETTYSBURG TIMES; his rates are one cent a word for classified ads in a daily paper that covers the Adams County Community. He is ready every week-day to cry your ads, small or large.

Sparton Radio

The Pathfinder of the Air

H. & T. Electric Shop

H. F. HARBACH, Prop.

"Everything Electrical"